NEW QUESTION: 1 What is one of the best ways that hybrid infra structure can help a business grow?A. reduces the risk of digital disruptionB. creates new revenue streamsC. reduces the need for lOTD. reduces the need for technical expertiseAnswer: C

NEW QUESTION: 2 Which of the following interprets your actions when typing at the command line for the operating system?A. UtilityB. CommandC. ApplicationD. ShellAnswer: D
Explanation:The "shell" is another name for the command shell or command interpreter.This is the program that gives you a command prompt, accepts the commands you type there, and basically makes the computer do what you tell it to.The shell's job is to interpret your commands and run the programs you request. Linux was designed to be a multitasking operating system, which means you can run more than one program at one time. Linux was also designed as a multi-user OS, which means that you can have more than one shell running at the same time. (Each user gets his own shell at login.) As a user, you have access only to the programs you are running, not the ones other users are running (though you can run your own copy of the same program). The programs are kept separate because they are "enclosed" in a "shell".Reference: http://www.control-escape.com/lx-shell.htmlIncorrect AnswersA:A utility is a program that can be run from the shell.B:An application is another name for a utility or program.D:A command is what you enter to run a utility/program/application.
