NEW QUESTION: 1A recent spike in virus detections has been attributed to end-users visiting www.compnay.com. The business has an established relationship with an organization using the URL of www.company.com but not with the site that has been causing the infections. Which of the following would BEST describe this type of attack?A. Spear phishingB. Typo squattingC. Cross-site scriptingD. Session hijackingAnswer: B*Explanation:Typosquatting, also called URL hijacking or fake url, is a form of cybersquatting, and possibly brandjacking which relies on mistakes such as typographical errors made by Internet users when inputting a website address into a web browser. Should a user accidentally enter an incorrect website address, they may be led to any URL (including an alternative website owned by a cybersquatter).The typosquatter's URL will usually be one of four kinds, all similar to the victim site address:(In the following, the intended website is "example.com")A common misspelling, or foreign language spelling, of the intended site: exemple.comA misspelling based on typing errors: xample.com or examlpe.comA differently phrased domain name: examples.comA different top-level domain: example.orgOnce in the typosquatter's site, the user may also be tricked into thinking that they are in fact in the real site; through the use of copied or similar logos, website layouts or content. Incorrect Answers:B. In computer science, session hijacking, sometimes also known as cookie hijacking is the exploitation of a valid computer session-sometimes also called a session key-to gain unauthorized access to information or services in a computer system. In particular, it is used to refer to the theft of a magic cookie used to authenticate a user to a remote server. It has particular relevance to web developers, as the HTTP cookies used to maintain a session on many web sites can be easily stolen by an attacker using an intermediary computer or with access to the saved cookies on the victim's computer. In this question, the users went to www.compnay.com instead of www.company.com.Therefore, this is not a case of hijacking a valid session; it's a case of users going to the wrong URL.C. Cross-site scripting (XSS) is a type of computer security vulnerability typically found in Web applications. XSS enables attackers to inject client-side script into Web pages viewed by other users.Cross-site scripting uses known vulnerabilities in web-based applications, their servers, or plug-in systems on which they rely. Exploiting one of these, attackers fold malicious content into the content being delivered from the compromised site. When the resulting combined content arrives at the client-side web browser, it has all been delivered from the trusted source, and thus operates under the permissions granted to that system. By finding ways of injecting malicious scripts into web pages, an attacker can gain elevated access-privileges to sensitive page content, session cookies, and a variety of other information maintained by the browser on behalf of the user. The question is not describing an XSS attack.D. Spear phishing is an e-mail spoofing fraud attempt that targets a specific organization, seeking unauthorized access to confidential data. As with the e-mail messages used in regular phishing expeditions, spear phishing messages appear to come from a trusted source. Phishing messages usually appear to come from a large and well-known company or Web site with a broad membership base, such as eBay or PayPal. In the case of spear phishing, however, the apparent source of the e-mail is likely to be an individual within the recipient's own company and generally someone in a position of authority. The attack described in the question is not an example of spear phishing. NEW QUESTION: 2 You have a cluster running with the FIFO scheduler enabled. You submit a large job A to the cluster which you expect to run for one hour. Then, you submit job B to the cluster, which you expect to run a couple of minutes only. Let's assume both jobs are running at the same priority. How does the FIFO scheduler execute the jobs? (Choose 3) A. Since job B needs only a few tasks, it might finish before job A completes. B. The order of execution of tasks within a job may vary. C. When a job is submitted, all tasks belonging to that job are scheduled. D. Given jobs A and B submitted in that order, all tasks from job A will be scheduled before all tasks from job B. Answer: B,C,D Explanation: Reference: <http://seriss.com/rush-current/rush/rush-priority.html#FIFO%20Scheduling> (see fifo scheduling)
