NEW QUESTION: 2Refer to the exhibit.The network architect is planning network addresses for the VLANs shown. The company is using the private 10.0.0.0/8 space. Which guidelines should the network architect follow?A. Use a/25 subnet for each VLAN to conserve the limited IP addressing spaceB. Use a/22 subnet for each VLAN to ensure enough IP addresses for each large modular switchC. Implement the port isolation feature and apply several /30 subnets to each VLAND. Use a /24 subnet for each VLAN for simplicity and scalabilityAnswer: D

NEW QUESTION: 3Your network contains a server that has the Remote Desktop Session Host (RD Session Host) role service installed.You need to prevent administrators from logging other administrators off of the console session.What should you do?A. From the RDP-Tcp properties of the RD Session Host server, modify the Sessions settings.B. From the Computer Configuration Group Policy settings, modify the Remote Desktop Session Host settings.C. From the RDP-Tcp properties of the RD Session Host server, modify the Client Settings.D. From the User Configuration Group Policy settings, modify the Remote Desktop Connection Client settings.Answer: B*Explanation:ConnectionsPolicy settings in this node control connection settings on a Remote Desktop Session Hostserver.The full path of this node in the Group Policy Management Console is ComputerConfigurationPoliciesAdministrative TemplatesWindows ComponentsRemote DesktopServicesRemote Desktop Session HostConnections.Deny logoff of an administrator logged in to the console sessionThis policy setting determines whether an administrator attempting to connect remotely tothe console of a server can log off an administrator currently logged on to the console.This policy is useful when the currently connected administrator does not want to be loggedoff by another administrator. If the connected administrator is logged off, any data notpreviously saved is lost.If you enable this policy setting, logging off the connected administrator is not allowed. If you disable or do not configure this policy setting, logging off the connected administrator is allowed. Note The console session is also known as Session 0. Console access can be obtained by using the /console switch from Remote Desktop Connection in the computer field name or from the command line Source: <http://technet.microsoft.com/en-us/library/ee791922.aspx>
