A. Chain of custody was not properly maintained.
B. Traffic logs for the incident are unavailable.
C. Incident time offsets were not accounted for.
D. The logs are corrupt and no longer forensically sound.
Answer: C
Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Explanation: It is quite common for workstation times to be off slightly from actual time, and that can happen with servers as well. Since a forensic investigation is usually dependent on a step-by-step account of what has happened, being able to follow events in the correct time sequence is critical. Because of this, it is imperative to record the time offset on each affected machine during the investigation. One method of assisting with this is to add an entry to a log file and note the time that this was done and the time associated with it on the system.
