NEW QUESTION: 2You currently have an application deployed via Elastic Beanstalk. You are now deploying a new application and have ensured that Elastic beanstalk has detached the current instances and deployed and reattached new instances. But the new instances are still not receiving any sort of traffic. Why is this the case?A. The instances are of the wrong AMI, hence they are not being detected by the ELB.B. It takes time for the ELB to register the instances, hence there is a small timeframe before your instances can start receiving trafficC You need to create a new Elastic Beanstalk application, because you cannot detach and then reattach instances to an ELB within an Elastic Beanstalk applicationC. The instances needed to be reattached before the new application version was deployedAnswer: B*Explanation: Explanation Before the EC2 Instances can start receiving traffic, they will be checked via the health checks of the CLB. Once the health checks are successful, the EC2 Instance will change its state to InService and then the EC2 Instances can start receiving traffic. Use the PURGE statement to remove a table or index from your recycle bin and release all of the space associated with the object, or to remove the entire recycle bin, or to remove part of all of a dropped tablespace from the recycle bin. When the database purges a table, all table partitions, LOBs and LOB partitions, indexes, and other dependent objects of that table are also purged. The database object must reside in your own schema or you must have the DROP ANY... system privilege for the type of object to be purged, or you must have the SYSDBA system privilege.
