NEW QUESTION: 1 Refer to the exhibit. A network engineer created a Bash script to automate some network device tasks. What are two potential risks when a network operator runs this script as written? (Choose two.) A. The script executes too slowly. B. The script results in network devices losing connectivity. C. The script passes configuration data in clear text. D. The script configures unintended commands. E. The script exposes users' passwords. Answer: A, D

NEW QUESTION: 2 Which strategy should you recommend to meet the client's goals? Choose only ONE best answer. A. Audience Network and Custom Audiences. B. Custom Audiences and Carousel. C. Custom audiences and Lookalike audiences. D. Interest and lookalike audiences. Answer: C Explanation: Explanation Every time you work with a new client, your best audiences will always be Custom Audiences and Lookalike Audiences. For physical locations, you want to re-market to existing customer databases. You want to use a custom audience of people who have already bought at the store to promote re-purchases. You then want to use this database and use a similar/lookalike audience so that you can bring new potential customers over. Because you are using Facebook offline events, you can even segment people based on long-term value of sales. The last audience you should be using is a saved/core audience, but you should always start with the other two first.

NEW QUESTION: 3 DRAG DROP Answer: Explanation: Explanation Live Connect implements the OAuth 2.0 protocol to authenticate users. In the authorization code grant flow, the client makes authorization requests by using request_type=code. The following diagram illustrates how the authorization code grant flow works. 1. The client starts the flow by directing the resource owner's user agent to the Live Connect authorization endpoint, by using a URL in the following format. https://login.live.com/oauth20\_authorize.srf?client\_id=CLIENT\_ID&scope=SCOPES&response\_type=code&red2 2. The authorization server authenticates the resource owner via the user agent, and establishes whether the resource owner grants or denies the client's access request. 3.

Assuming that the resource owner has granted access, the Live Connect authorization server redirects the user agent to the client by using the redirection URI that was provided in the initial request.4. The user agent calls the client with the redirection URI, which includes an authorization code and any local state that was provided by the client. For example: http://contoso.com/Callback.htm?code=AUTHORIZATION\_CODE.5. The client requests an access token from the authorization server's token endpoint by using its client credentials for authentication, and includes the authorization code that was received in the previous step.6. If the credentials are valid, the authorization server responds by returning an access token. References: <https://msdn.microsoft.com/en-us/library/hh243647.aspx>
