NEW QUESTION: 3Note: This question is part of a series of question that use the same set of answer choices. Each answer choice may be used once, more than once, or not at all. Your network contains an enterprise certification authority (CA) that runs Windows Server 2008 R2 Enterprise. You need to ensure that users can enroll for certificates that use the IPSEC (Offline request) certificate template. Which snap-in should you use?A. Certification AuthorityB. Active Directory Administrative CenterC. Share and Storage ManagementD. Security Configuration WizardE. Enterprise PKIF. Certificate TemplatesG. Group Policy ManagementH. Authorization ManagerI. CertificatesAnswer: FExplanation: The only snap-in for managing templates is the Certificate Templates snap-in. On the Security tab of a specific certificate template, you can configure access and permissions for the certificate, including Enroll permissions (allows a user to enroll in that certificate). The Enterprise PKI snap-in is used for viewing properties for multiple CA's; we need to modify the properties of a single certificate template. The Certification Authority snap-in is used for configuring various properties of a CA. The Certificates snap-in lets us view the certificates installed on a local machine, and make requests for a certificate. None of the other tools are used with certificate services.
