NEW QUESTION: 2A security analyst receives an email from a peer that includes a sample of code from a piece of malware found in an application running in the organization's staging environment. During the incident response process, it is determined the code was introduced into the environment as a result of a compromised laptop being used to harvest credentials and access the organization's code repository. While the laptop itself was not used to access the code repository, an attacker was able to leverage the harvested credentials from another system in the development environment to bypass the ACLs limiting access to the repositories. Which of the following controls MOST likely would have interrupted the kill chain in this attack?
A. Time-based restrictions on developer access to code repositoriesB. IP whitelisting on the perimeter firewallC. Blue team engagement in peer-review activitiesD. Dynamic analysis scans in the production environmentE. MFA for developer accessAnswer: E

NEW QUESTION: 3Refer to Scenario. The Chief Technical Officer (CTO) of a large company has directed their IT management staff to examine corporate wide operations and find ways to limit the cost of operations. The corporate directives have prompted adoption of company policies that include the use of virtualization for all new servers and as many services as possible. The company is subject to government regulations concerning data retention policies for confidential data. Data has to be retained for seven years. An audit of the backup and recovery environment is performed. The exhibit shows a typical site and how it is connected to the disaster recovery environment. Data in the primary site is configured on VMAX storage using FAST-VP to support multiple work load types on a single storage array. Data is protected by SRDF/A to a remote VMAX which acts as a target for multiple sites. The remote copy of the data is snapped and copied to tape. Retention is accomplished to governmental standards by offsite storage of tape in a remote protected facility. The company has noted that it has the following requirements in any proposed architecture for the backup and recovery environment: Reduced power consumption, Reduced floor space consumption, Reduced storage capacity consumption, Lower WAN bandwidth utilization, Shorten RPO, Decrease RTO, Increase security, Lower Total Cost of Ownership (TCO). The company has been unable to achieve the RTO required by their Service Level Agreement to their major clients. If they want to limit TCO, which EMC solution should be proposed?

A. NetWorker and Avamar
B. Avamar
C. NetWorker and Data Domain
D. Data Domain
Answer: D
