NEW QUESTION: 2 A. Option C B. Option A C. Option D D. Option B Answer: D Explanation: Invoke-GPUUpdate Schedule a remote Group Policy refresh (gpupdate) on the specified computer. Applies To: Windows Server 2012 R2 The Invoke-GPUUpdate cmdlet refreshes Group Policy settings, including security settings that are set on remote computers by scheduling the running of the Gpupdate command on a remote computer. You can combine this cmdlet in a scripted fashion to schedule the Gpupdate command on a group of computers. The refresh can be scheduled to immediately start a refresh of policy settings or wait for a specified period of time, up to a maximum of 31 days. To avoid putting a load on the network, the refresh times will be offset by a random delay. Note: Group Policy is a complicated infrastructure that enables you to apply policy settings to remotely configure a computer and user experience within a domain. When the Resultant Set of Policy settings does not conform to your expectations, a best practice is to first verify that the computer or user has received the latest policy settings. In previous versions of Windows, this was accomplished by having the user run GPUUpdate.exe on their computer. With Windows Server 2012 R2 and Windows 8, you can remotely refresh Group Policy settings for all computers in an organizational unit (OU) from one central location by using the Group Policy Management Console (GPMC). Or you can use the Invoke-GPUUpdate Windows PowerShell cmdlet to refresh Group Policy for a set of computers, including computers that are not within the OU structure-for example, if the computers are located in the default computers container. The remote Group Policy refresh updates all Group Policy settings, including security settings that are set on a group of remote computers, by using the functionality that is added to the context menu for an OU in the Group Policy Management Console (GPMC). When you select an OU to remotely refresh the Group Policy settings on all the computers in that OU, the following operations happen:- An Active Directory query returns a list of all computers that belong to that OU. - For each computer that belongs to the selected OU, a WMI call retrieves the list of signed in users.- A remote scheduled task is created to run GPUUpdate.exe /force for each signed in user and once for the computer Group Policy refresh. The task is scheduled to run with a random delay of up to 10 minutes to decrease the load on the network traffic. This random delay cannot be configured when you use the GPMC, but you can configure the random delay for the scheduled task or set the scheduled task to run immediately when you use the Invoke-GPUUpdate cmdlet.Reference: Force a Remote Group Policy Refresh (GPUUpdate)

NEW QUESTION: 3How will you model a Type II Slowly-Changing Dimension?A. Add an additional column to the dimension table to capture a version of changeB. Do NothingC. Overwrite an existing dimension table record with the changed recordD. Add a new row to the dimension table with a new key for the changed recordAnswer: D*Explanation: Explanation/Reference:Dimensional Modeling - Slowly Changing Dimensions* Type 1 - Overwrite Original ValueA change does not require tracking* Type 2 - Add a new recordWith Type II SCD, a new version of the dimension record (row) is created, and the existing version is marked as history.Each row does not correspond to a different instance of an entity but a different "state", a "snapshot" of the instance at a point in time.Note: Tracking changes in dimension is referred in datawarehousing as slowly changing dimensions.In the source system a lot of changes are daily made :new customers are added,addresses are modified,new regional hierarchies are implemented,or simply the product descriptions and packaging change.These sorts of changes need to be reflected in the dimension tables and in several cases, the history of the changes also needs to be tracked.By remembering history, we are then able to look at historical data and compare it to their current situation.
