NEW QUESTION: 1DRAG DROPYou manage a SQL Server Reporting Services (SSRS) instance in native mode. You are building a shared dataset for your weekly performance reports. The shared dataset uses a data source that is configured to use credentials that are stored in the Report Server.You have a predefined shared schedule to perform cleanup and maintenance tasks for SSRS.You need to enable caching on the shared dataset. You also need to use an existing shared schedule to discard the cache.Which four actions should you perform in sequence? (To answer, move the appropriate actions from the list of actions to the answer area and arrange them in the correct order.)Answer: Explanation:Explanation:Box 1: Open Report Manager and then click the shared dataset.We should use Report Manager (not SharePoint Central Administration).Box 2: Select the Caching page and then click the Cache shared dataset checkbox.We set up caching.Box 3: Select the Expire the cache on the following schedule option and then select the Shared Schedule option.We configure caching further.Box 4: From the combo box, select the shared schedule and then click Apply.Finally we define scheduling. Note on caching:To open the Caching properties page for a shared dataset* Open Report Manager, and locate the report for which you want to configure shared dataset properties.* Point to the shared dataset, and click the drop-down arrow.* In the drop-down list, click Manage. The General properties page for the report opens.* Click the Caching tab.Options include:Cache shared dataset (Box 2 above)Places a temporary copy of the data in a cache when a user first opens a report that uses this shared dataset. Subsequent users who run the report within the caching period receive the cached copy of the data. Caching usually improves performance because the data is returned from the cache instead of running the dataset query again.Expire the cache on the following schedule (box 3 above)Schedule the time when the cached data is no longer valid and is removed from the cache.The schedule can be a shared schedule or one that is specific for only the current shared dataset.

Option B*Answer: A, CExplanation:The 'lun' in the path is irrelevant. The 0 at the end of each statement denotes the LUN ID. LUN IDs must be unique per igroup.

NEW QUESTION: 3Which two statements describe CoS? (Choose two.)A. CoS does not create additional bandwidth.B. CoS does not protect sensitive traffic flowsC. CoS creates an end-to-end guaranteed bandwidth reservationD. CoS can be used to differentiate traffic for different customers.Answer: C,D

NEW QUESTION: 4You have a Cisco UCS server connected to Cisco Fabric Interconnects. Which two options are characteristics of a virtual machine that is deployed by using VMFEX in high-performance mode in this environment? (Choose two.)A. The dynamic vNIC can connect redundantly by using hardware-based failover to the Cisco UCS Fabric interconnect cluster.B. Dynamic vNICs inherit parameters from static vNICsC. The virtual machine connects to a Cisco VIF on the external switch by using Cisco VN- Link in hardware, bypassing the hypervisor.D. The virtual machine deployed in VM-FEX high-performance mode runs on the host by using the default BIOS policy that is available in the Cisco UCS ManagerE. The virtual machine can share the same dynamic vNIC with another virtual machine in VMFEX highperformance modeAnswer:

A,CExplanation:Explanation: Explanation/Reference:In high-performance mode, traffic to and from a virtual machine (VM) bypasses the DVS and hypervisor. Traffic travels directly between VMs and the virtual interface card (VIC) adapter.The benefits of high-performance mode are as follows:-Increases I/O performance and throughput.-Decreases I/O latency.-Improves CPU utilization for virtualized I/O-intensive applications. You must modify or create several policies in order for VM-FEX for VMware to function optimally:-VMwarePassThrough Ethernet Adapter Policy (high-performance mode only)-Dynamic vNIC Connection Policies-BIOS Policy (high-performance mode only)-VM Lifecycle PolicyDynamic vNICs are always protected in Cisco UCS, but this field allows you to select a preferred fabric, if any. You can choose one of the following:-Protected Pref A-Cisco UCS attempts to use fabric A but fails over to fabric B if necessary-Protected Pref B-Cisco UCS attempts to use fabric B but fails over to fabric A if necessary Protected-Cisco UCS uses whichever fabric is available Reference:
