NEW QUESTION: 1Which customer scenario represents the most ideal prospect for IBM Worklight Platform?A. The customer that wants a pure native application and is looking to their digital design agency, that built their ecommerce website, to now build their mobile application.B. The customer that is looking for a solution to help build mobile hybrid applications in house by their web development team.C. The customer that is looking for a simple single app for a single device for its internal employees.D. The customer that believes they do not need a presence on commercial App Stores and just wants a server side mobile web experience for their customers.Answer: B

NEW QUESTION: 2In which of the following security models is the subject's clearance compared to the object's classification such that specific rules can be applied to control how the subject-to-object interactions take place?A. Biba modelB. Access Matrix modelC. Take-Grant modelD. Bell-LaPadula modelAnswer: D
Explanation:Explanation/Reference:
Explanation:A system that employs the Bell-LaPadula model is called a multilevel security system because users with different clearances use the system, and the system processes data at different classification levels. The level at which information is classified determines the handling procedures that should be used. The Bell- LaPadula model is a state machine model that enforces the confidentiality aspects of access control. A matrix and security levels are used to determine if subjects can access different objects. The subject's clearance is compared to the object's classification and then specific rules are applied to control how subject-to-object interactions can take place.This model uses subjects, objects, access operations (read, write, and read/write), and security levels.Subjects and objects can reside at different security levels and will have relationships and rules dictating the acceptable activities between them.
Incorrect Answers:B: The Biba Model is a formal state transition system of computer security policy that describes a set of access control rules designed to ensure data integrity. This is not what is described in the question.C: An access control matrix is a table of subjects and objects indicating what actions individual subjects can take upon individual objects. This is not what is described in the question.D: The take-grant protection model is used to establish or disprove the safety of a given computer system that follows specific rules. This is not what is described in the question.References:Harris, Shon, All In One CISSP Exam Guide, 6th Edition, McGraw-Hill, New York, 2013, p. 229
