NEW QUESTION: 1You have an Active Directory forest that contains one site.You plan to deploy an Exchange organization. All servers in the organization will have Exchange Server2010 Service Pack 1 (SP1) installed.The relevant Mailbox servers are configured as shown in the following table.Each Mailbox server will host 2,000 mailboxes.Corporate policy states that the servers must have a maximum write latency of 100 ms and an averagewrite latency of 10 ms. The hardware vendor for the planned deployment provides test hardware.You need to recommend a solution to ensure that the planned deployment meets the requirements of the corporate policy.Which of the following solutions is the best recommendation? (More than one answer choice may achievethe goal. Select the BEST answer.)A. Calculate the number of IOPS required for the planned deployment by using the Exchange 2010 Mailbox Server Role Requirements Calculator.B. Identify the workload at which the hardware can deliver acceptable latency by using the Jetstress tool.C. Gather a baseline of the disk I/O usage by using the Windows Performance Monitor.D. Test the performance of the hardware under a simulated user workload by using the Loadgen tool.Answer: BExplanation:Use Microsoft Exchange Load Generator 2010 (LoadGen) as a simulation tool to measure the impact of MAPI, OWA, ActiveSync, IMAP, POP and SMTP clients on Exchange 2010 and 2007 servers. LoadGen allows you to test how a server running Exchange 2010/2007 responds to e-mail loads. To simulate the delivery of these messaging requests, you run LoadGen tests on client computers. These tests send multiple messaging requests to the Exchange server, thereby causing a mail load. LoadGen is a useful tool for administrators who are sizing servers and validating a deployment plan. Specifically, LoadGen helps you determine if each of your servers can handle the load to which they are intended to carry. Another use for LoadGen is to help validate the overall solution.Use Jetstress 2010 to verify the performance and stability of a disk subsystem prior to putting a Microsoft Exchange Server 2003, 2007 and 2010 server into production. Jetstress helps verify disk performance by simulating Exchange disk Input/Output (I/O) load. Specifically, Jetstress simulates the Exchange database and log file loads produced by a specific number of users. You use Performance Monitor, Event Viewer, and ESEUTIL in conjunction with Jetstress to verify that your disk subsystem meets or exceeds the performance criteria you establish. After a successful completion of the Jetstress Disk Performance and Stress Tests in a non-production environment, you will have ensured that your Exchange disk subsystem is adequately sized (in terms of performance criteria you establish) for the user count and user profiles you have established. It is highly recommended that the Jetstress user read through the tool documentation before using the tool.

NEW QUESTION: 2 You are designing an Azure resource deployment that will use Azure Resource Manager templates. The deployment will use Azure Key Vault to store secrets. You need to recommend a solution to meet the following requirements: Prevent the IT staff that will perform the deployment from retrieving the secrets directly from Key Vault. Use the principle of least privilege. Which two actions should you recommend? Each correct answer presents part of the solution. NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point. A. Assign the IT staff a custom role that includes the Microsoft.KeyVault/Vaults/Deploy/Action permission. B. From Access policies in Key Vault, enable access to the Azure Resource Manager for template deployment. C. Create a Key Vault access policy that allows all get key permissions, get secret permissions, and get certificate permissions. D. Create a Key Vault access policy that allows all list key permissions, list secret permissions, and list certificate permissions. E. Assign the Key Vault Contributor role to the IT staff. Answer: A, B Explanation: B: To access a key vault during template deployment, set `EnabledForTemplateDeployment` on the key vault to `true`. D: The user who deploys the template must have the `Microsoft.KeyVault/vaults/deploy/action` permission for the scope of the resource group and key vault. Incorrect Answers: E: To grant access to a user to manage key vaults, you assign a predefined key vault Contributor role to the user at a specific scope. If a user has Contributor permissions to a key vault management plane, the user can grant themselves access to the data plane by setting a Key Vault access policy. You should tightly control who has Contributor role access to your key vaults. Ensure that only authorized persons can access and manage your key vaults, keys, secrets, and certificates. Reference: <https://docs.microsoft.com/en-us/azure/azure-resource-manager/templates/key-vault-parameter> <https://docs.microsoft.com/en-us/azure/key-vault/general/overview-security>
