NEW QUESTION: 1 Standards related to information technology are not as well-developed or universally accepted as standards in some other audit areas. Financial statements that are fairly presented meet the following _____: Generally accepted accounting principles are used
A. Appropriate accounting principles are used
B. Financial statements address matters that may affect their use or interpretation
C. Financial statements classify and summarize information in a reasonable manner
D. Financial statements reflect underlying transactions and events in a way that facilitates the presentation of the financial position, results of operation, and cash flows
Answer: D

NEW QUESTION: 2 You are testing a native application for a smart phone. The application allows the user to make grocery lists on the phone and store up to three lists at a time. A list can contain up to 50 items. Which of the following is the minimum set of test conditions to achieve 100% coverage with the equivalence partitioning test technique?
A. List with 0 items, List with 1 item, List with 50 items, List with 51 items, 0 lists saved, 1 list saved, 3 lists saved, 4 lists saved
B. List with 47 items
C. List with 0 items, List with 12 items, List with 58 items, 0 lists saved, 1 list saved, 3 lists saved, 7 lists saved
D. List with 0 items, List with 25 items, List with 51 items, 3 lists saved
Answer: C
Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Explanation: D is correct as it tests each condition with invalid too low, valid and invalid too high values. A is incorrect because it doesn't consider the list save capabilities and it doesn't test the invalid values for the list. B is incorrect because it is doing BVA which results in too many tests for minimum coverage with EP. C is incorrect because it does not sufficiently test the save feature.

NEW QUESTION: 3 CIO/CTO concerns about the construction of unified communication systems include () (multiple choices of this question)

NEW QUESTION: 4 What are the human resources professional's primary role in assisting a department with conducting an effective interview?A. To offer any requested advice on preparing for and setting up interviewsB. To create the official list of questions that will be asked during the interviewC. To choose the members of the prospective interview boardD. To conduct all interviews for prospective employees of the companyE. To work with the interview board to select the right candidate for the positionAnswer: A*Explanation:Explanation: When a department within a company is planning interviews to hire new employees, the human resources professional's role is primarily one of assisting. The human resources professional is not responsible for choosing the members of the prospective interview board (answer choice B), since this role will fall to the department and those who will be working with the new employee or employees. Additionally, the job of creating official list of questions for the interview (answer choice C), conducting the actual interviews for prospective employees (answer choice D), and working with the interview board to select the right candidate (answer choice E) belongs not to the human resources professional but to the manager or supervisor of department in which the employees will work.
