The application has a sporadic traffic pattern and should be able to scale during marketing campaigns to process the orders with minimal delays. C. b, c, d, g, f, e, a
D. a, b, c, d, e, f, g
E. g, f, a, b, e, c, d
Answer: B
Explanation: About Recovery with a Backup Control File If all copies of the current control file are lost or damaged, then you must restore and mount a backup control file. You must then run the RECOVER command, even if no data files have been restored, and open the database with the RESETLOGS option. If some copies of the current control file are usable, however, then you can follow the procedure in "Responding to the Loss of a Subset of the Current Control Files" and avoid the recovery and RESETLOGS operation. When RMAN is connected to a recovery catalog, the recovery procedure with a backup control file is identical to recovery with a current control file. The RMAN metadata missing from the backup control file is available from the recovery catalog. The only exception is if the database name is not unique in the catalog, in which case you must use SET DBID command before restoring the control file.
1. Start RMAN and connect to a target database.
2. Start the target instance without mounting the database. RMAN>STARTUP NOMOUNT;
3. Restore the control file RMAN> SET DBID 320066378; # (Optional) If the database name is not unique, you need to specify the DBID RMAN> RUN { SET CONTROLFILE AUTOBACKUP FORMAT FOR DEVICE TYPE DISK TO 'autobackup_format'; RESTORE CONTROLFILE FROM AUTOBACKUP; }
4. Start the target instance with mounting the database. RMAN>STARTUP MOUNT;
5. Restore the data files; RMAN>RESTORE DATABASE;
6. Recover the database; RMAN>RECOVER DATABASE;
7. Open the database with RESETLOGS option; RMAN> ALTER DATABASE OPEN RESETLOGS;
