NEW QUESTION: 1An electric utility company wants to store power plant sensor data in an Amazon DynamoDB table. The utility company has over 100 power plants and each power plant has over 200 sensors that send data every 2 seconds. The sensor data includes time with milliseconds precision, a value, and a fault attribute if the sensor is malfunctioning. Power plants are identified by a globally unique identifier. Sensors are identified by a unique identifier within each power plant. A database specialist needs to design the table to support an efficient method of finding all faulty sensors within a given power plant. Which schema should the database specialist use when creating the DynamoDB table to achieve the fastest query time when looking for faulty sensors?A. Create a composite of the plant identifier and sensor identifier as the partition key. Use the measurement time as the sort key. Create a local secondary index (LSI) on the fault attribute.B. Use the plant identifier as the partition key and the measurement time as the sort key. Create a global secondary index (GSI) with the plant identifier as the partition key and the fault attribute as the sort key.C. Use the plant identifier as the partition key and the sensor identifier as the sort key. Create a local secondary index (LSI) on the fault attribute.D. Create a composite of the plant identifier and sensor identifier as the partition key. Use the measurement time as the sort key. Create a global secondary index (GSI) with the plant identifier as the partition key and the fault attribute as the sort key.Answer: A

NEW QUESTION: 2Your network contains an Active Directory domain named contoso.com. The domain contains a file server named Server1 that runs Windows Server 2012 R2. You view the effective policy settings of Server1 as shown in the exhibit. (Click the Exhibit button.) You need to ensure that an entry is added to the event log whenever a local user account is created or deleted on Server1. What should you do?A. In Servers GPO, modify the Audit Policy settings.B. In Servers GPO, modify the Advanced Audit Configuration settings.C. On Server1, attach a task to the system log.D. On Server1, attach a task to the security log.Answer: B*Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Explanation: When you use Advanced Audit Policy Configuration settings, you need to confirm that these settings are not overwritten by basic audit policy settings. The following procedure shows how to prevent conflicts by blocking the application of any basic audit policy settings. Enabling Advanced Audit Policy Configuration Basic and advanced audit policy configurations should not be mixed. As such, it's best practice to enable Audit: Force audit policy subcategory settings (Windows Vista or later) to override audit policy category settings in Group Policy to make sure that basic auditing is disabled. The setting can be found under Computer ConfigurationPoliciesSecurity SettingsLocal PoliciesSecurity Options, and sets the SCENoApplyLegacyAuditPolicy registry key to prevent basic auditing being applied using Group Policy and the Local Security Policy MMC snap-in. In Windows 7 and Windows Server 2008 R2, the number of audit settings for which success and failure can be tracked has increased to 53. Previously, there were nine basic auditing settings under Computer ConfigurationPoliciesWindows SettingsSecurity SettingsLocal PoliciesAudit Policy. These 53 new settings allow you to select only the behaviors that you want to monitor and exclude audit results for behaviors that are of little or no concern to you, or behaviors that create an excessive number of log entries. In addition, because Windows 7 and Windows Server 2008 R2 security audit policy can be applied by using domain Group Policy, audit policy settings can be modified, tested, and deployed to selected users and groups with relative simplicity. Audit Policy settingsAny changes to user account and resource permissions.Any failed attempts for user logon.Any failed attempts for resource access.Any modification to the system files. Advanced Audit Configuration SettingsAudit compliance with important business-related and security-related rules by tracking precisely defined activities, such as:A group administrator has modified settings or data on servers that contain finance information.An employee within a defined group has accessed an important file.The correct system access control list (SACL) is applied to every file and folder or registry key on a computer or file share as a verifiable safeguard against undetected access. In Servers GPO, modify the Audit Policy settings - enabling audit account management setting will generate events about account creation, deletion and so on. Advanced Audit Configuration SettingsAdvanced Audit Configuration Settings -> Audit Policy-> Account Management -> Audit User Account Management In Servers GPO, modify the Audit Policy settings - enabling audit account management setting will generate events about account creation, deletion and so on. NEW QUESTION: 3 You add two hard drives to a Windows 8.1 computer. The computer does not have a RAID controller. You plan to store data only on the two new hard drives. You need to ensure that data loss will not occur if only one hard drive fails. What should you do? A. Create a storage pool that contains one drive, and then add the second drive to the pool. B. Create a storage pool that contains both drives and set the resiliency type to Two-way mirror. C. Create a spanned volume. D. Create a storage pool that contains both drives and set the resiliency type to Parity. Answer: B Explanation:

<http://windows.microsoft.com/en-us/windows-8/storage-spaces-pools> Storage Spaces: FAQ What is Storage Spaces? Storage Spaces lets you group drives together in a storage pool. Then you can use pool capacity to create storage spaces. Storage spaces are virtual drives that appear in File Explorer. You can use them like any other drive, so it's easy to work with files on them. You can create large storage spaces and add more drives to them when you run low on pool capacity. If you have two or more drives in the storage pool, you can create storage spaces that won't be affected by a drive failure-or even the failure of two drives, if you create a three-way mirror storage space.

<http://blogs.msdn.com/b/olivnie/archive/2013/02/05/windows-8-storage.aspx> Windows 8: Storage Storage Spaces Storage Spaces is a new feature for Windows@ 8 that allows a user to combine several disks into a single pool of storage that provides for easier management of multiple disks and resiliency against hardware failure on any of those disks. The disks that you use for Storage Spaces can be a mix of different-sized disks, and these can be connected to Microsoft@ Windows using both internal and external connections, making it easy to turn the collection of drives you already have into a safe and easy-to-manage place to store things like your home videos or photos. The table below describes the different options for resiliency: You administer Windows 8.1 Enterprise computers in your company network.

NEW QUESTION: 4 A software vendor has announced a zero-day vulnerability that exposes an organization's critical business systems, following should be the information security manager's PRIMARY concern?
A. Business tolerance of downtime
B. Ability to test patches prior to deployment
C. Availability of resources to implement controls
D. Adequacy of the incident response plan
Answer: C
