The equation for the price-to-sales ratio is as follows:Price-to-sales ratio = [P0 / sales per share]. Incorporating the given information into this equation will yield the following:Price-to-sales ratio = [$30.25 / ($16,000,000 / 1,300,000)] = 2.4578The calculation of the price-to-book ratio involves dividing the market price of a common stock by its net worth per share. The equation for the price-to-book ratio is as follows:Price-to-book ratio = [P0 / net worth per share].Where: net worth per share = (total assets - total liabilities) / # of common shares outstanding.In this example, the net worth figure has been converted to a per-share basis, and the calculation of the price-to-book ratio is straightforward:Price-to-book ratio = ($30.35 / $14.55) = 2.0859The calculation of the price-to-cash flow ratio involves dividing the market price of a common stock by the cash-flow-per-share figure. The calculation of the price-to-cash flow ratio is as follows: Price-to-cash flow = (P0 / cash flow per share)Incorporating the given information into this equation will yield the following:Price-to-cash flow = [$30.35 / (1,700,000 / 1,300,000)] = 23.132
