NEW QUESTION: 1 A partition key is used to group data by shard within a stream. Choose the correct answer: A. False B. True
Answer: B
Explanation: A partition key is used to group data by shard within a stream. The Streams service segregates the data records belonging to a stream into multiple shards, using the partition key associated with each data record to determine which shard a given data record belongs to.

NEW QUESTION: 2 Using resource pools can result in the following benefits: A. Separation of resources from hardware G - Integration of resources from hardware H - Management of sets of virtual machines running a multi-tier service B. Flexible hierarchical organization C. Limited Access control and delegation D. Access control and delegation E. Rigid hierarchical organization F. Isolation between pools, sharing within pools
Answer: A, B, D, F
Explanation: Using resource pools can result in the following benefits:
- Flexible hierarchical organization. You can add, remove, or reorganize resource pools or change resource allocations as needed.
- Isolation between pools, sharing within pools. Top-level administrators can make a pool of resources available to a department-level administrator. Allocation changes that are internal to one departmental resource pool do not unfairly affect other unrelated resource pools.
- Access control and delegation. When a top-level administrator makes a resource pool available to a department-level administrator, that administrator can then perform all virtual machine creation and management within the boundaries of the resources to which the resource pool is entitled by the current shares, reservation, and limit settings. Delegation is usually done in conjunction with permissions settings, which are discussed in the Introduction to Virtual Infrastructure.
- Separation of resources from hardware. If you are using clusters enabled for DRS, the resources of all hosts are always assigned to the cluster. That means administrators can perform resource management independently of the actual hosts that contribute the resources. If you replace three 2GB hosts with two 3GB hosts, you don't need to make changes to your resource allocations. This separation allows administrators to think more about aggregate computing capacity and less about individual hosts.
- Management of sets of virtual machines running a multi-tier service. You don't need to set resources on each virtual machine. Instead, you can control the aggregate allocation of resources to the set of virtual machines by changing settings on their enclosing resource pool.

NEW QUESTION: 3 As a Scrum Master, you have to coordinate with the Product Owner to ensure that an appropriate Length of Sprint is determined keeping in mind the changes expected. Which of the following statements is true in this regard?A. If the project is stable, with only minor changes expected, the Length of Sprint should be relatively shorter, 1 to 3 weeks.B. The impact and frequency of expected changes do not have any impact on the decision related to the Length of Sprint.C. To get maximum benefits from a Scrum project, it is always recommended to keep the Sprint Time-boxed to 6 weeks.D. It is advisable to consider the Release Dates for the overall product or service to determine the Length of Sprint.Answer: A
Explanation: Explanation If project requirements are generally stable and major changes are not expected in the near future, the Length of a Sprint may be set to be longer, 4 to 6 weeks. This provides stability to the Scrum Team members to work on the Prioritized Product Backlog requirements for lengthy periods of time without having to go through the Create User Stories, Approve, Estimate and Commit User Stories, Create Tasks, Estimate Task, and other related processes that are conducted for every Sprint. However, if project requirements are not very well defined or if significant changes are expected in the immediate future, the Length of Sprint may be relatively shorter, 1 to 3 weeks. This provides stability to the Scrum Team members to work on shorter Sprints and deliver results, which can be evaluated by the Product Owner and stakeholders at the end of the Sprint. This also provides enough flexibility for them to clarify requirements and make changes to the Prioritized Product Backlog at the end of each Sprint.
