NEW QUESTION: 2 You have a private distribution group that contains provisioned and unprovisioned devices. You need to distribute a new iOS application to the distribution group by using Microsoft Visual Studio App Center. What should you do? A. Add the device owner to the organization in App Center. B. Create an active subscription in App Center Test. C. Request the Apple ID associated with the user of each device. D. Register the devices on the Apple Developer portal. Answer: D Explanation: Explanation When releasing an iOS app signed with an ad-hoc or development provisioning profile, you must obtain tester's device IDs (UDIDs), and add them to the provisioning profile before compiling a release. When you enable the distribution group's Automatically manage devices setting, App Center automates the before mentioned operations and removes the constraint for you to perform any manual tasks. As part of automating the workflow, you must provide the user name and password for your Apple ID and your production certificate in a .p12 format. App Center starts the automated tasks when you distribute a new release or one of your testers registers a new device. First, all devices from the target distribution group will be registered, using your Apple ID, in your developer portal and all provisioning profiles used in the app will be generated with both new and existing device ID. Afterward, the newly generated provisioning profiles are downloaded to App Center servers. References: <https://docs.microsoft.com/en-us/appcenter/distribution/groups>

NEW QUESTION: 3 HOTSPOT An organization has an Active Directory Domain Services (AD DS) domain that includes a security group named SPAdmins. Employees use SharePoint to connect to external business systems. In Central Administration, you select Manage Service Applications. You need to configure the Secure Store service application to ensure that members of the SPAdmins group can create new Secure Store target applications. Which button should you click to begin the process? (To answer, select the appropriate button in the answer area.)
Hot Area:
Answer: Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Note: To assign or remove administrators to a service application by using Central Administration:
1. Verify that the user account that is performing this procedure is a member of the Farm Administrators group.
2. On the Central Administration Home page, in the Application Management section, click Manage service applications.
3. On the Manage Service Applications page, select the row that contains the service application to which you want to add or remove administrators. The ribbon becomes available.
4. On the ribbon, click Administrators.
5. To add an administrator:
1. In the first text box on the page, type the user accounts or groups that you want to add. You can click the People icon to validate a name. You can click the Address book icon to search for users to add. You can add multiple administrators into the text box.
2. After you have added the administrators, click OK.
6. To remove an administrator:
1. In the second text box on the page, select the administrator whom you want to remove. Note that this step does not remove the user from the system—it merely revokes the user's administrative permissions to the selected service application.
2. Click Remove.
3. After you have finished removing administrators, click OK.
Reference: Assign or remove administrators to a service application (SharePoint 2013)

NEW QUESTION: 4 During food digestion, nutrients are broken down through mechanical and chemical processes. The mechanical phase of digestion begins when you take a bite of food. Food is then physically broken down into smaller particles so that digestive enzymes can act. Chemical digestion involves a change in the chemical nature of nutrients so that they can be broken down further and absorbed into the bloodstream. Which digestive activity is an example of chemical digestion?
A. churning the food in the stomach by the stomach muscles
B. cutting and tearing the food by front teeth
C. digestive enzymes breaking down complex molecules of protein
D. grinding and chewing the food by back teeth
E. swallowing the food
Answer: C
