NEW QUESTION: 2 You work as a Database Documenter for Tech Perfect Inc. You have a database named Database1 created in Microsoft Office Access 2010. This database contains three tables named Products, Orders, and Order Details. You want to manage the tables in such a way that each record in the Orders table will have many records in the Products table and each record in the Products table will have many records in the Orders table. What should you do to accomplish the task? A. Create a container-managed relationship. B. Create a one-to-one relationship. C. Create a many-to-many relationship. D. Create a one-to-many relationship. Answer: C Explanation: In order to accomplish the task, you should create a many-to-many relationship between the Orders table and the Products table. You can define this relationship by creating two one-to-many relationships to the Order Details table. Answer B is incorrect. A one-to-one relationship is created between two tables in which each record in one table can have only one related record in another table. Answer D is incorrect. A one-to-many relationship is created between two tables in which a row in the first table can have one or more matching rows in the second table, but a row in the second table can have only one matching row in the first table. Answer C is incorrect. The Microsoft Office Access does not have this kind of relationship.

NEW QUESTION: 4 Which two statements correctly define the use cases for Business Process Execution Language (BPEL) vs. Business Process Modeling Notation (BPMN) vs. Enterprise Service Bus (ESB)?
A. BPEL and ESB are both good technologies for doing heavy transformations of data before sending the data to a back-end system or database.
B. Decision Model and Notation (DMN) replaces BPMN in modern Cloud Architectures.
C. All are part of a typical/traditional on-premise enterprise integration strategy and can also be an important part of a hybrid on-premises/Cloud architecture.
D. An ESB is used primarily for stateless messages and service mediation. The ESB construct is being replaced by API's and API Gateways in modern Cloud architectures.
E. BPEL is inherently better than BPMN in managing orchestrations that involve people, because BPEL can also interact with systems.
Answer: A,D
