NEW QUESTION: 1A corporate network includes a single Active Directory Domain Services (AD DS) domain. The HR department has a dedicated organizational unit (OU) named HR. The HR OU has two sub-OUs: HR Users and HR Computers. User accounts for the HR department reside in the HR Users OU. Computer accounts for the HR department reside in the HR Computers OU. All HR department employees belong to a security group named HR Employees. All HR department computers belong to a security group named HR PCs. Company policy requires that passwords are a minimum of 6 characters. You need to ensure that, the next time HR department employees change their passwords, the passwords are required to have at least 8 characters. The password length requirement should not change for employees of any other department. What should you do?A. Create a fine-grained password policy and apply it to the security group named HR Employees.B. Modify the password policy in the GPO that is applied to the domain.C. Modify the password policy in the GPO that is applied to the domain controllers OU.D. Create a new GPO, with the necessary password policy, and link it to the HR Users OU.Answer: A
Explanation:Reference: <http://technet.microsoft.com/en-us/library/cc770394.aspx>What do fine-grained password policies do?You can use fine-grained password policies to specify multiple password policies within a single domain. You can use fine-grained password policies to apply different restrictions for password and account lockout policies to different sets of users in a domain. For example, you can apply stricter settings to privileged accounts and less strict settings to the accounts of other users. In other cases, you might want to apply a special password policy for accounts whose passwords are synchronized with other data sources. Are there any special considerations?Fine-grained password policies apply only to user objects (or inetOrgPerson objects if they are used instead of user objects) and global security groups. By default, only members of the Domain Admins group can set fine-grained password policies. However, you can also delegate the ability to set these policies to other users. The domain functional level must be Windows Server 2008. Fine-grained password policy cannot be applied to an organizational unit (OU) directly. To apply fine-grained password policy to users of an OU, you can use a shadow group.

NEW QUESTION: 2 Refer to the exhibit. What is the reason for the failure of the DMVPN session between R1 and R2?
A. IPsec phase-2 policy mismatch
B. IPsec phase-1 configuration is missing peer address on R2
C. IPsec phase-1 policy mismatch
D. tunnel mode mismatch
E. incorrect tunnel source interface on R1
Answer: E

NEW QUESTION: 3 What Netflow component can be applied to an interface to track IPv4 traffic?
A. flow exporter
B. flow record
C. flow sampler
D. flow monitor
Answer: D
Explanation: Flow monitors are the Flexible NetFlow component that is applied to interfaces to perform network traffic monitoring. Flow monitors consist of a record and a cache. You add the record to the flow monitor after you create the flow monitor. The flow monitor cache is automatically created at the time the flow monitor is applied to the first interface. Flow data is collected from the network traffic during the monitoring process based on the key and nonkey fields in the record, which is configured for the flow monitor and stored in the flow monitor cache. For example, the following example creates a flow monitor named FLOW-MONITOR-1 and enters Flexible NetFlow flow monitor configuration mode:
Router(config)# flow monitor FLOW-MONITOR-1
Router(config-flow-monitor)#
