NEW QUESTION: 3 You have an application hosted in AWS. This application was created using Cloudformation Templates and Autoscaling. Now your application has got a surge of users which is decreasing the performance of the application. As per your analysis, a change in the instance type to C3 would resolve the issue. Which of the below option can introduce this change while minimizing downtime for end users?
A. Copy the old launch configuration, and create a new launch configuration with the C3 instances. Update the Auto Scaling group with the new launch configuration. Auto Scaling will then update the instance type of all running instances. B. Update the launch configuration in the AWS CloudFormation template with the new C3 instance type. Add an UpdatePolicy attribute to the Auto Scaling group that specifies an AutoScalingRollingUpdate. Run a stack update with the updated template. C. Update the existing launch configuration with the new C3 instance type. Add an UpdatePolicy attribute to your Auto Scaling group that specifies an AutoScalingRollingUpdate in order to avoid downtime. D. Update the AWS CloudFormation template that contains the launch configuration with the new C3 instance type. Run a stack update with the updated template, and Auto Scaling will then update the instances one at a time with the new instance type. Answer: B Explanation: Explanation Ensure first that the cloudformation template is updated with the new instance type. The AWS::AutoScaling::AutoScalingGroup resource supports an UpdatePolicy attribute. This is used to define how an Auto Scaling group resource is updated when an update to the Cloud Formation stack occurs. A common approach to updating an Auto Scaling group is to perform a rolling update, which is done by specifying the AutoScalingRollingUpdate policy. This retains the same Auto Scaling group and replaces old instances with new ones, according to the parameters specified. Option A is invalid because this will cause an interruption to the users. Option C is partially correct, but it does not have all the steps as mentioned in option B. Option D is partially correct, but we need the AutoScalingRollingUpdate attribute to ensure a rolling update is performed. For more information on AutoScaling Rolling updates please refer to the below link:*
