NEW QUESTION: 1Your company has decided to move a few applications to Oracle Cloud Infrastructure (OCI) and you have been asked to design a cloud-based disaster recovery (DR) solution. One of the requirements is to deploy the DR resources at least 300 miles from the home OCI region and minimize the network latency.What will be the recommended deployment?A. Deploy production and DR applications in two separate VCNs, each in different regions. Connect them using a VCN remote peering connection.B. Deploy production and DR applications in two separate VCNs in different availability domains (ADs) within your home region, and then use a VCN remote peering connection for connectivity.C. Deploy production and DR applications in two separate virtual cloud networks (VCNs), each in different regions, and then use VCN local peering gateways for connectivity.D. Deploy production and DR applications in the same VCN. Create production subnets in one AD, and DR subnets in another AD.Answer: A*Explanation:Remote VCN peering is the process of connecting two VCNs in different regions The peering allows the VCNs' resources to communicate using private IP addresses without routing the traffic over the internet or through your on-premises network.

NEW QUESTION: 2Which three phrases are advantages of connection pooling? (Choose three.)A. reduces load on the serverB. improved scalabilityC. improved performanceD. reduces time to create a connectionE. requires no configurationAnswer: B,C,D*Explanation:In connection pooling, after a connection is created, it is placed in the pool and it is used over again so that a new connection does not have to be established.Connection pooling often improves application performance, concurrency and scalability.Connection pooling also cuts down on the amount of time a user must wait to establish a connection to the database.
