NEW QUESTION: 1 Refer to the exhibit. In order to achieve optimization using auto-discovery for traffic coming from site C and destined to site A in the exhibit, which configuration below would be required? A. Both B and C B. Both A and C C. Peering rule on site B Steelhead appliance passing through probes from site C D. In-path fixed-target rule on site B Steelhead appliance pointing to Site A Steelhead appliance E. Peering rule on site B Steelhead appliance passing through probe responses from site A Answer: C

NEW QUESTION: 2 Which two statements best describes the difference between active mode monitoring and passive mode monitoring? (Choose two.) A. Passive mode monitoring uses IP SLA to generate probes for the purpose of obtaining information regarding the characteristics of the WAN links. B. Active mode monitoring is the act of Cisco PfR gathering information on user packets assembled into flows by NetFlow. C. Passive mode monitoring uses NetFlow for obtaining performance characteristics of the exit WAN links. D. Active mode monitoring uses IP SLA probes for obtaining performance characteristics of the current exit WAN link. Answer: C, D
Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Section: (none) Explanation/Reference: Within PfR Measuring Phase, PfR measures the performance of CT's using passive and active monitoring: * Passive Monitoring - based on Netflow. BR(S) reports to the MC the average delay of the flows. Packet loss, reachability along with outbound throughput for each identified TC by Netflow is reported. Measurement of non-TCP traffic flows in this mode is characterized by throughput only while TCP flows are measured on Delay, Loss, Reachability and throughput. This mode is useful for TCP based flows only and TCP flows must be observed by the BRs to manage prefixes. * Active Monitoring - Active monitoring use IP SLA feature in order to generate test traffic for the specific TC and measure performance based on delay, reachability, Jitter, MOS for any type of flows and not just TCP as with passive monitoring. Only the current exit path is used to generate IP SLA until it becomes OOP (Out of Policy). * Monitor Both - Use both passive and active mode and send IP SLA out the current exit point only. * Fast Monitoring - Send IP SLA out all the exit points and alternate paths are always known allowing immediate use as required. This mode can reroute OOP traffic in less than 3 seconds.
