All other frames display IP addresses.You need to display mnemonic host names instead of IP addresses for all the frames.What should you do?A. Configure the Network Monitor application to enable the Enable Conversations option. Recapture the data to a new file.B. Create a new capture filter and apply the filter to the capture.C. Populate the Aliases table and apply the aliases to the capture.D. Create a new display filter and apply the filter to the capture.Answer: C

NEW QUESTION: 3A. Option BB. Option AC. Option DD. Option CAnswer: DExplanation: Packaged apps (also known as Windows 8 apps) are based on a model, which ensures that all the files within an app package, including the app installer, share the same identity. This model is represented by the publisher name, the package name, and the package version. Therefore, it is possible to control the entire app by using a single AppLocker rule. Unlike other AppLocker rule collections, rules for Packaged apps are not restricted to specific file extensions. However, the Packaged app installer, which has the .appx extension, is a new file type that can be controlled by rules in this rule collection. Because Windows only supports signed Packaged apps, AppLocker only supports Publisher rules for this rule collection.To prevent all Packaged apps from running on a newly domain-joined computer, by default AppLocker blocks all Packaged apps on a computer running Windows Server 2012 or Windows 8 if the existing domain policy has rules configured in the Executable rule collection. You must take explicit action to allow Packaged apps in your enterprise. You can either allow only a select set of Packaged apps, or if you want to allow all Packaged apps, you can create a default rule for the Packaged apps collection.
