NEW QUESTION: 1The internetwork infrastructure of company XYZ consists of a single OSPF area as shown in the graphic. There is concern that a lack of router resources is impeding internetwork performance. As part of examining the router resources, the OSPF DRs need to be known. All the router OSPF priorities are at the default and the router IDs are shown with each router.Which routers are likely to have been elected as DR? (Choose two.)A. Corp-1B. Corp-4C. Corp-3D. Branch-1E. Corp-2F. Branch-2*Answer: B,F*Explanation:There are 2 segments on the topology above which are separated by Corp-3 router. Eachsegment will have a DR so we have 2 DRs.To select which router will become DR they will compare their router-IDs. The router with highest(best) router-ID will become DR. The router-ID is chosen in the order below:+The highest IP address assigned to a loopback (logical) interface.+If a loopback interface is not defined, the highest IP address of all active router's physical interfaces will be chosen.In this question, the IP addresses of loopback interfaces are not mentioned so we will consider IP addresses of all active router's physical interfaces. Router Corp-4 (10.1.40.40) & Branch-2(10.2.20.20) have highest "active" IP addresses so they will become DRs.

NEW QUESTION: 3 Which of the following correctly describes a difference between closed-end and open-end investment companies? A. Open-end investment company shares will never be offered at a price below the net asset value per share of the fund; this is not true of closed-end companies. B. Open-end investment companies have a fixed number of shares; closed-end companies can create new shares if there are more buyers than sellers. C. Shares of open-end companies sell on exchange floors; shares of closed-end companies are bought and sold through the company itself. D. Open-end companies may invest in non-diversified portfolios; closed-end companies are required to invest only in diversified portfolios. Answer: A

Explanation: A difference between closed-end and open-end investment companies is that open-end investment company shares will never be offered at a price below the net asset value of the fund; this is not true of closed-end companies. The shares of open-end investment companies (mutual funds) are bought (and sold) through the company itself at net asset value or net asset value plus a load charge. Therefore, the offer price will always be greater than or equal to the fund's net asset value per share. Closed-end company shares are bought and sold on exchange floors, and the price is set by supply and demand, so closed-end shares may sell for less than the net asset value of the fund. Closed-end companies have a fixed number of shares. Open-end companies can create new shares if there are more buyers than sellers. Both types of management companies can be either diversified or non-diversified in their holdings.
