NEW QUESTION: 1Portfolio managers tend to use the efficient frontier analysis as a modeling approach that gives decision makers the analytical tool to optimize portfolios given resource constraints such as risk. Consider that your company is risk-averse, on which side of the efficient frontier curve should the undertaken portfolios lie?A. Below the curveB. Along the lower bounds of the curveC. Above the curveD. Along the upper bounds of the curveAnswer: B
Explanation:ExplanationThis is an important question and requires that you understand the efficient frontier concept very well . A quick explanation would be that portfolios are considered sub-optimal if they lie below the curve, non-realistic with a non-realistic risk level if they lie above the curve; so the best portfolios are those who lie on the curve or along the bounds of the curve, however, for a risk-averse company such as the one in the given scenario, chosen portfolios lie in the low-risk zone which is along the lower bounds of the curve (to the left)
