NEW QUESTION: 1 A company sales manager received a memo from the company's financial department which stated that the company would not be putting its software products through the same security testing as previous years to reduce the research and development cost by 20 percent for the upcoming year. The memo also stated that the marketing material and service level agreement for each product would remain unchanged. The sales manager has reviewed the sales goals for the upcoming year and identified an increased target across the software products that will be affected by the financial department's change. All software products will continue to go through new development in the coming year. Which of the following should the sales manager do to ensure the company stays out of trouble?
A. Contact senior finance management and provide background information
B. Discuss the issue with the software product's user groups
C. Consult the company's legal department on practices and law
D. Seek industry outreach for software practices and law
Answer: C

NEW QUESTION: 2 A technician recently ran a 20-meter section of CAT6 to relocate a control station to a more central area on the production floor. Since the relocation, the helpdesk has received complaints about intermittent operation. During the troubleshooting process, the technician noticed that collisions are only observed on the switch port during production. Given this information, which of the following is the cause of the problem?
A. Speed and duplex mismatch
B. Electromagnetic interference
C. Cross talk
D. Distance limitation
Answer: B
Explanation: Explanation When cables are installed near electrical devices the signal within the cable might become corrupt. The cable connecting the control station to the switch port is now surrounded by the production machinery. Electromagnetic interference could occur when the machinery is running, causing the intermittent operation.
