NEW QUESTION: 1What do you call one or more IP subnets that are connected by a high-speed link?A. IntranetB. MapC. PAND. SiteAnswer: D*Explanation:Explanation/Reference:Explanation: A site is one or more IP subnets that are connected by a high-speed link, typically defined by a geographical location. Suppose that you have a four-story office building. Although the building includes several subnets, all computers within the building use layer-2 and layer-3 switches to communicate with each other.

NEW QUESTION: 2According to the ITIL@ v3 framework, what four benefits are realized from release management in the service transition process? (Choose four.)A. changes to software are "bundled" together for one release, which minimizes the impact of changes on usersB. the opportunity to plan expenditure and resource requirements in advanceC. testing before rollout, which minimizes incidents that affect users and requires less reactive supportD. certification of hardware used in rollout to meet criteria specified for the production environmentE. a structured approach to rolling out all new software or hardware, which is efficient and effectiveF. validation and acceptance of services by users before services are put in the production environmentAnswer: A,B,C,E

NEW QUESTION: 3You've been hired to enhance the overall security posture for a very large e-commerce site. They have a well architected multi-tier application running in a VPC that uses ELBs in front of both the web and the app tier with static assets served directly from S3 They are using a combination of RDS and DynamoDB for their dynamic data and then archiving nightly into S3 for further processing with EMR They are concerned because they found questionable log entries and suspect someone is attempting to gain unauthorized access. Which approach provides a cost effective scalable mitigation to this kind of attack?A. Remove all but TLS 1.2 from the web tier ELB and enable Advanced Protocol Filtering This will enable the ELB itself to perform WAF functionality.B. Recommend that they lease space at a DirectConnect partner location and establish a 1G DirectConnect connection to their VPC they would then establish Internet connectivity into their space, filter the traffic in hardware Web Application Firewall (WAF). And then pass the traffic through the DirectConnect connection into their application running in their VPC,C. Add a WAF tier by creating a new ELB and an AutoScaling group of EC2 Instances running a host-based WAF They would redirect Route 53 to resolve to the new WAF tier ELB The WAF tier would then pass the traffic to the current web tier The web tier Security Groups would be updated to only allow traffic from the WAF tier Security GroupD. Add previously identified hostile source IPs as an explicit INBOUND DENY NACL to the web tier subnet.Answer: C
