NEW QUESTION: 1A. Option DB. Option CC. Option AD. Option BAnswer: C*Explanation: Administrative distance - This is the measure of trustworthiness of the source of the route. If a router learns about a destination from more than one routing protocol, administrative distance is compared and the preference is given to the routes with lower administrative distance. In other words, it is the believability of the source of the route.

NEW QUESTION: 2Which statements about reflexive access lists are true? (Choose three.)A. Reflexive access lists approximate session filtering using the established keywordB. Reflexive access lists can be attached to extended named IP ACLsC. Reflexive access lists create a permanent ACED. Reflexive access lists support TCP sessionsE. Reflexive access lists can be attached to standard named IP ACLsF. Reflexive access lists support UDP sessionsAnswer: B,D,F*Explanation:To define a reflexive access list, you use an entry in an extended named IP access list. This entry must use the reflect keyword.A reflexive access list is triggered when a new IP upper-layer session (such as TCP or UDP) is initiated from inside your network, with a packet traveling to the external network.Moreover, the previous method of using the established keyword was available only for the TCP upper-layer protocol. So, for the other upper-layer protocols (such as UDP, ICMP, and so forth), you would have to either permit all incoming traffic or define all possible permissible source/destination host/port address pairs for each protocol. (Besides being an unmanageable task, this could exhaust NVRAM space.)
