NEW QUESTION: 1 Which of the following is a network diagnostic tool that monitors and records network information?
A. Online monitor
B. Help desk report
C. Downtime report
D. Protocol analyzer
Answer: D
Explanation: Protocol analyzers are network diagnostic tools that monitor and record network information from packets traveling in the link to which the analyzer is attached. Online monitors (choice A) measure telecommunications transmissions and determine whether transmissions were accurate and complete. Downtime reports (choice B) track the availability of telecommunication lines and circuits. Help desk reports (choice C) are prepared by the help desk, which is staffed or supported by IS technical support personnel trained to handle problems occurring during the course of IS operations.
