NEW QUESTION: 1You need to recommend an Active Directory solution for the Washington office that meets the company's technical requirements.What should you include in the recommendation?A. Set the site link cost of the site link between the Washington office and the New York office to 1.B. Disable site link bridging for IP Inter-Site Transport.C. Enable the Try Next Closest Site Group Policy setting.D. Create site link between the Washington office and the London office. Set the site link cost to 11.Answer: C*Explanation:This setting improves the Domain Controller Locator (DC Locator) by helping to streamline network traffic, especially in large enterprises that have many branch offices and sites.This new setting can affect how you configure site link costs because it affects the order in which domain controllers are located. For enterprises that have many hub sites and branch offices, you can significantly reduce Active Directory traffic on the network by ensuring that clients fail over to the next closest hub site when they cannot find a domain controller in the closest hub site.As a general best practice, you should simplify your site topology and site link costs as much as possible if you enable the Try Next Closest Site setting. In enterprises with many hub sites, this can simplify any plans that you make for handling situations in which clients in one site need to fail over to a domain controller in another site.By default, the Try Next Closest Site setting is not enabled. When the setting is not enabled, DC Locator uses the following algorithm to locate a domain controller:
-Try to find a domain controller in the same site.-If no domain controller is available in the same site, try to find any domain controller in the domain.
