NEW QUESTION: 3 You are a systems administrator for your company. The company has employees who work remotely by using a virtual private network (VPN) connection from their computers, which run Windows 8 Pro. These employees use an application to access the company intranet database servers. The company recently decided to distribute the latest version of the application through using a public cloud. Some users report that every time they try to download the application by using Internet Explorer, they receive a warning message that indicates the application could harm their computer. You need to recommend a solution that prevents this warning message from appearing, without compromising the security protection of the computers. What should you do?
A. Digitally sign the application by using a trusted certificate, and then update the default App Package Deployment policy on all computers.
B. Change the default Applications Control Policies on the client computers.
C. Publish the application through a public file transfer protocol (FTP) site.
D. Change the default Software Restriction Policies on the client computers.
Answer: A
Explanation: Note: The app package signature ensures that the package and contents haven't been modified after they were signed. If the signing certificate validates to a Trusted Root Certification Authorities Certificate, the signature also identifies who signed the package.
