NEW QUESTION: 3A third party was engaged to develop a business application. Which of the following would an information security manager BEST test for the existence of back doors?A. Running the application from a high-privileged account on a test systemB. Security code reviews for the entire applicationC. Reverse engineering the application binariesD. System monitoring for traffic on network portsAnswer: B*Explanation:Security' code reviews for the entire application is the best measure and will involve reviewing the entire source code to detect all instances of back doors. System monitoring for traffic on network ports would not be able to detect all instances of back doors and is time consuming and would take a lot of effort. Reverse engineering the application binaries may not provide any definite clues. Back doors will not surface by running the application on high-privileged accounts since back doors are usually hidden accounts in the applications.
