NEW QUESTION: 1 ABC has three AWS accounts. They have created separate IAM users within each account. ABC wants a single IAM login URL such as <https://abc.signin.aws.amazon.com/console/> for use by IAM users in all three accounts. How can this be achieved?
A. It is not possible to have the same IAM account login URL for separate AWS accounts
B. Create the S3 bucket with an alias name and use the redirect rule to forward requests to various accounts
C. Create the same account alias with each account ID
D. Merge all the accounts with consolidated billing
Answer: A
Explanation: Explanation/Reference:
Explanation: Users can create an alias for their accounts, but the alias should be unique to the account. For example, the alias "abc" can be assigned to only one account. If a user wants the URL of the AWS IAM sign-in page to have a company name instead of the AWS account ID, he can create an alias for his AWS account ID.

NEW QUESTION: 4 Which of the following types of Intrusion Detection Systems uses behavioral characteristics of a system's operation or network traffic to draw conclusions on whether the traffic represents a risk to the network or host?A. Signature Analysis.B. Host-based ID systems.C. Anomaly Detection.D. Network-based ID systems.Answer: C*Explanation:There are two basic IDS analysis methods: pattern matching (also called signature analysis) and anomaly detection. Anomaly detection uses behavioral characteristics of a system's operation or network traffic to draw conclusions on whether the traffic represents a risk to the network or host. Anomalies may include but are not limited to:Multiple failed log-on attempts Users logging in at strange hours Unexplained changes to system clocks Unusual error messagesThe following are incorrect answers: Network-based ID Systems (NIDS) are usually incorporated into the network in a passive architecture, taking advantage of promiscuous mode access to the network. This means that it has visibility into every packet traversing the network segment. This allows the system to inspect packets and monitor sessions without impacting the network or the systems and applications utilizing the network.Host-based ID Systems (HIDS) is the implementation of IDS capabilities at the host level. Its most significant difference from NIDS is that related processes are limited to the boundaries of a single-host system. However, this presents advantages in effectively detecting objectionable activities because the IDS process is running directly on the host system, not just observing it from the network. This offers unfettered access to system logs, processes, system information, and device information, and virtually eliminates limits associated with encryption. The level of integration represented by HIDS increases the level of visibility and control at the disposal of the HIDS application.Signature Analysis Some of the first IDS products used signature analysis as their detection method and simply looked for known characteristics of an attack (such as specific packet sequences or text in the data stream) to produce an alert if that pattern was detected. For example, an attacker manipulating an FTP server may use a tool that sends a specially constructed packet. If that particular packet pattern is known, it can be represented in the form of a signature that IDS can then compare to incoming packets. Pattern-based IDS will have a database of hundreds, if not thousands, of signatures that are compared to traffic streams. As new attack signatures are produced, the system is updated, much like antivirus solutions. There are drawbacks to pattern-based IDS. Most importantly, signatures can only exist for known attacks. If a new or different attack vector is used, it will not match a known signature and, thus, slip past the IDS. Additionally, if an attacker knows that the IDS is present, he or she can alter his or her methods to avoid detection. Changing packets and data streams, even slightly, from known signatures can cause an IDS to miss the attack. As with some antivirus systems, the IDS is only as good as the latest signature database on the system.For additional information on Intrusion Detection Systems http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Intrusion_detection_systemReference(s) used for this question: Hernandez CISSP, Steven (2012-12-21).
