Explanation: Explanation One of the most powerful tools to measure sales at retail stores is to use Facebook offline events. With Offline Conversion Tracking, you can track when transactions occur in a physical business location and other offline channel, after people see or engage with a Facebook ad. * Use precise timestamps, including minutes and seconds to track multiple purchases. * Use actual transaction value to see the most accurate event values on a dashboard. * Use Order ID's or item number to include multiple items within a single transaction. So the best strategy is to use offline events to better understand how Facebook marketing campaigns affect the retail stores.
