NEW QUESTION: 1Note: This question is part of a series of questions that present the same scenario. Each question in the series contains a unique solution that might meet the stated goals. Some question sets might have more than one correct solution, while others might not have a correct solution.After you answer a question in this section, you will NOT be able to return to it. As a result, these questions will not appear in the review screen.Your company is developing a new business intelligence application that will access data in a Microsoft Azure SQL Database instance. All objects in the instance have the same owner.A new security principal named BI_User requires permission to run stored procedures in the database.The stored procedures read from and write to tables in the database. None of the stored procedures perform IDENTIFY_INSERT operations or dynamic SQL commands.The scope of permissions and authentication of BI_User should be limited to the database. When granting permissions, you should use the principle of least privilege.You need to create the required security principals and grant the appropriate permissions.Solution: You run the following Transact-SQL statement:Does the solution meet the goal?A. No*B. Yes*Answer: BExplanation: Explanation/Reference:Explanation:One method of creating multiple lines of defense around your database is to implement all data access using stored procedures or user-defined functions. You revoke or deny all permissions to underlying objects, such as tables, and grant EXECUTE permissions on stored procedures. This effectively creates a security perimeter around your data and database objects.Best PracticesSimply writing stored procedures isn't enough to adequately secure your application. You should also consider the following potential security holes.Grant EXECUTE permissions on the stored procedures for database roles you want to be able to access the data.Revoke or deny all permissions to the underlying tables for all roles and users in the database,including the public role. All users inherit permissions from public. Therefore denying permissions to public means that only owners and sysadmin members have access; all other users will be unable to inherit permissions from membership in other roles.Do not add users or roles to the sysadmin or db_owner roles. System administrators and database owners can access all database objects.References: <https://docs.microsoft.com/en-us/dotnet/framework/data/adonet/sql/managing-permissions-with-stored-procedures-in-sql-server>

NEW QUESTION: 2Based on the provided ASDM configuration for the remote ASA, which one of the following is correct?A. An access-list must be configured on the outside interface to permit inbound VPN traffic B. The tunnel can also be established on TCP port 10000 C. The ASA will use a window of 128 packets (64x2) to perform the anti-replay check D. A route to 192.168.22.0/24 will not be automatically installed in the routing table Answer: C Explanation: Explanation Cisco IP security (IPsec) authentication provides anti-replay protection against an attacker duplicating encrypted packets by assigning a unique sequence number to each encrypted packet. The decryptor keeps track of which packets it has seen on the basis of these numbers. Currently, the default window size is 64 packets. Generally, this number (window size) is sufficient, but there are times when you may want to expand this window size. The IPsec Anti-Replay Window: Expanding and Disabling feature allows you to expand the window size, allowing the decryptor to keep track of more than 64 packets.

NEW QUESTION: 3 An SAP LUW differs from a database LUW in that it allows for multiple screens to be processed. A. False B. True Answer: A
