NEW QUESTION: 2An administrator receives an error on an XtremIO array while performing snapshot refreshes to a production volume. What is a potential cause for this issue?
A. Volume was not unmapped on the XtremIO cluster
B. Refresh of the production volume is not supported
C. Only snapshot-to-snapshot refresh is supported
D. Volume was not unmounted on the host
Answer: D
Explanation:Explanation/Reference:The workflow for refreshing XtremIO Snapshots, containing Oracle Database files, consists of the following five simple steps:1. Shut down the database instances with files in the target Snapshot Set.2. Dismount the ASM disk group (or file systems) involved.3. Refresh the Snapshot via XtremIO GUI (or CLI or RESTful API).4. Mount the ASM disk groups (or file system) involved.5. Start the database instances.This entire workflow is measured in seconds (not minutes).Incorrect Answers:A: The refresh command is a powerful tool for test and development environments and for the offline processing use case. With a single command, a snapshot of the production volume or CG is taken and the SCSI face of the volume, which was mapped to the test and development application, is moved to it. This allows the test and development application to work on current data without the need to copy data or to rescan.References:

NEW QUESTION: 3 Which of the following represents important technical controls for securing a SAN storage infrastructure? (Select TWO).
A. Storage pool space allocation
B. Port scanning
C. LUN masking/mapping
D. Port mapping
E. Data de-duplication
F. RAID configuration
G. Synchronous copy of data

Answer: C, D
Explanation: Explanation A logical unit number (LUN) is a unique identifier that designates individual hard disk devices or grouped devices for address by a protocol associated with a SCSI, iSCSI, FibreChannel (FC) or similar interface. LUNs are central to the management of block storage arrays shared over a storage area network (SAN). LUN masking subdivides access to a given port. Then, even if several LUNs are accessed through the same port, the server masks can be set to limit each server's access to the appropriate LUNs. LUN masking is typically conducted at the host bus adapter (HBA) or switch level. Port mapping is used in 'Zoning'. In storage networking, Fibre Channel zoning is the partitioning of a Fibre Channel fabric into smaller subsets to restrict interference, add security, and to simplify management. While a SAN makes available several devices and/or ports to a single device, each system connected to the SAN should only be allowed access to a controlled subset of these devices/ports. Zoning can be applied to either the switch port a device is connected to OR the WWN World Wide Name on the host being connected. As port based zoning restricts traffic flow based on the specific switch port a device is connected to, if the device is moved, it will lose access. Furthermore, if a different device is connected to the port in question, it will gain access to any resources the previous host had access to.
