NEW QUESTION: 1A retail company has several on-premises data centers which span multiple geographical locations. They plan to move some of their applications from on-premises data centers to Oracle Cloud Infrastructure (OCI). For these applications running in OCI, they still need to interact with applications running on their on-premises data centers to Oracle Cloud Infrastructure (OCI). for these applications running in OCI. they still need to interact with applications running on their on-premises data centers. These applications require highly available, fault-tolerant network connections between on premises data centers and OCI.Which option should you recommend to provide the highest level of redundancy?A. If your data centers span multiple, geographical locations, use only the specific IP address as a static route for the specific geographical locationB. Oracle cloud Infrastructure provides network redundancy by default so that no other operations are requiredC. Use FastConnect private peering only to ensure secure access from your data center to Oracle Cloud InfrastructureD. Set up a single IPSec VPN connection (rom your data center to Oracle Cloud Infrastructure since It is cost effectiveE. Set up both IPSec VPN and FastConnect to connect your on premises data centers to Oracle Cloud Infrastructure.Answer: AExplanation:If your data centers span multiple geographical locations, we recommend using a broad CIDR (0.0.0.0/0) as a static route in addition to the CIDR of the specific geographical location. This broad CIDR provides high availability and flexibility to your network design. For instance, the following diagram shows two networks in separate geographical areas that each connect to Oracle Cloud Infrastructure. Each area has a single on-premises router, so two IPSec VPN connections can be created. Note that each IPSec VPN connection has two static routes: one for the CIDR of the particular geographical area, and a broad 0.0.0.0/0 static route.

NEW QUESTION: 2You have a domain controller that runs Windows Server 2008 R2 and is configured as a DNS server.You need to record all inbound DNS queries to the server.What should you configure in the DNS Manager console?A. Enable automatic testing for recursive queries.B. Enable debug logging.C. Configure event logging to log errors and warnings.D. Enable automatic testing for simple queries.Answer: BExplanation:
<http://technet.microsoft.com/en-us/library/cc753579.aspx>DNS ToolsEvent-monitoring utilities
The Windows Server 2008 family includes two options for monitoring DNS servers:-Default logging of DNS server event messages to the DNS server log. DNS server event messages are separated and kept in their own system event log, the DNS server log, which you can view using DNS Manager or Event Viewer. The DNS server log contains events that are logged by the DNS

Server service. For example, when the DNS server starts or stops, a corresponding event message is written to this log. Most additional critical DNS Server service events are also logged here, for example, when the server starts but cannot locate initializing data and zones or boot information stored in the registry or (in some cases) Active Directory Domain Services (AD DS). You can use Event Viewer to view and monitor client-related DNS events. These events appear in the System log, and they are written by the DNS Client service at any computers running Windows (all versions).-Optional debug options for trace logging to a text file on the DNS server computer.You can also use DNS Manager to selectively enable additional debug logging options for temporarytrace logging to a text-based file of DNS server activity. The file that is created and used for this feature,Dns.log, is stored in the %systemroot%System32Dns folder. <http://technet.microsoft.com/en-us/library/cc776361%28v=ws.10%29.aspx>Using server debug logging optionsThe following DNS debug logging options are available:-Direction of packets Send Packets sent by the DNS server are logged in the DNS server log file.Receive Packets received by the DNS server are logged in the log file....Further information: <http://technet.microsoft.com/en-us/library/cc759581%28v=ws.10%29.aspx>Select and enable debug logging options on the DNS server
