NEW QUESTION: 1 Refer to the exhibit. An administrator is creating a script using the Python xAPI over WebSockets (pyxows) library. The goal of this script is to monitor the volume of the endpoint and set the volume to 60 whenever the volume has been set higher than that amount. Which code snippet accomplishes this task when it is added? A. Option B B. Option C C. Option A D. Option D Answer: C

NEW QUESTION: 2 A company had one of its Amazon EC2 key pairs compromised. A Security Engineer must identify which current Linux EC2 instances were deployed and used the compromised key pair. How can this task be accomplished? A. Obtain the output from the EC2 instance metadata using: `curl http://169.254.169.254/latest/meta-data/public-keys/0/`. B. Obtain the fingerprint for the key pair from the AWS Management Console, then search for the fingerprint in Amazon CloudWatch Logs using: `aws logs filter-log-events`. C. Obtain the list of instances by directly querying Amazon EC2 using: `aws ec2 describe-instances --filters "Name=key-name,Values=KEYNAMEHERE"`. D. Obtain the fingerprint for the key pair from the AWS Management Console, then search for the fingerprint in the Amazon Inspector logs. Answer: C

NEW QUESTION: 3 A company has offices in multiple geographic locations. The sites have high-latency, low-bandwidth connections. You need to implement a multisite Windows Deployment Services (WDS) topology for deploying standard client device images to all sites. Solution: At each site, you deploy a local WDS server that runs only the Transport role. You configure local DHCP servers to direct local clients to the local WDS server. Does this meet the goal? A. No B. Yes Answer: A

NEW QUESTION: 4 Take a very commonplace, often discussed and critical topic: Are we detecting a greenhouse effect, and related to this, is it exacerbated by "homogenic factors," i.e., human actions? Most would be inclined to give a positive answer to both of these questions. But, if pushed, what would be the evidence, and how well grounded would it be for such affirmations? Within scientific communities and associated scientifically informed circles, the answers have to be somewhat more ambiguous, particularly when rigorous questions concerning evidence are raised. Were scientific truth to be a matter of consensus, and some argue that scientific truth often turns out to be just that, then it is clear that there is beginning to be a kind of majority consensus among many earth science practitioners that the temperature of the Earth, particularly of the oceans, is indeed rising and that this is a crucial indicator for a possible greenhouse effect. Most of these scientists admit that the mean oceanic temperature has risen globally in the last several decades. But this generalization depends upon how accurate measurements may be, not just for samples, but also for the whole Earth. A hot spot, for example the now four year old hot spot near New Guinea which is part of the El Niño cycle, does not count by itself because it might be balanced by cold spots elsewhere. And the fact of the matter is that "whole earth measurements" are still rare and primitive in the simple sense that we simply do not have enough thermometers out. Secondly, even if we had enough thermometers, a simply synchronic whole earth measurement over three decades is but a blip in the diachronic history of ice age cycles over the last tens of thousands of years. Thirdly, even if we know that the earth is now heating up, has an ever increasing ozone hole, and from this strange weather effects can be predicted, how much of this is due to homorganic factors, such as CFCs, CO2 increases, hydrocarbon burning, and the like? Is it really the case, as Science magazine claimed in 1990, "24% of greenhouse encouraging gases are of homorganic origin"? In this passage the author is primarily interested in A. Determining how well established the greenhouse effect is and to what degree it is worsened by human actions B. Making a simple synchronic whole earth measurement more than a blip in the diachronic history of Ice Age cycles over the last tens of thousands of years. C. Determining if most scientists would be inclined to give a positive answer to the question of whether there is a greenhouse effect and if it is worsened by human actions D. Whether scientific truths are simply a matter of consensus E. Whether the hot spot El Niño is balanced elsewhere by cold spots Answer: A Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Explanation: The author questions the claim that there is indeed a greenhouse effect that is made worse by human actions. A. is too general an answer, while D is too specific. D is wrong because it is probing whether scientists agree, not whether there the phenomenon actually exists.
