NEW QUESTION: 1 Refer to the Exhibit. Which tab shows the Hardware Acceleration support status?
A. Paths B. Advanced Options C. Properties D. Devices
Answer: D
Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Explanation: To know the detailed info about the tab: If you go to Host > Configuration > Storage, you can see the Hardware Acceleration Status in the panel on the right side. For each storage device and datastore, the vSphere Client displays the hardware acceleration support status in the Hardware Acceleration column of the Devices view and the Datastores view. The status values are Unknown, Supported, and Not Supported. The initial value is Unknown. The status changes to Supported after the host successfully performs the offload basic operations. If the offload operation fails, the status changes to Not Supported. NEW QUESTION: 2 A technician has been dispatched to a customer site to diagnose an issue where the computer turns off intermittently. Upon arriving at the site, the technician detects a smoke smell coming from the computer. Which of the following is the BEST solution?
A. Remove the side panel for proper ventilation. B. Install an additional case fan for proper ventilation. C. Power down the system and replace the CPU. D. Power down the system and replace the power supply.
Answer: D

NEW QUESTION: 3A. Option CB. Option DC. Option BD. Option A
Answer: D
Explanation:
autocommand: (Optional) Causes the specified command to be issued automatically after the user logs in. When the command is complete, the session is terminated. Because the command can be any length and can contain embedded spaces, commands using the autocommand keyword must be the last option on the line. So after successfully logs in the Admin user sees the running configuration and immediately after is disconnected by the router. So removing the command lets keep him connected. Source:
