NEW QUESTION: 1You currently have an Autoscalinggroup that has the following settingsMin capacity-2Desired capacity - 2Maximum capacity - 2Your launch configuration has AMI'S which are based on the t2.micro instance type. The application runningon these instances are now experiencing issues and you have identified that the solution is to change theinstance type of the instances running in the Autoscaling Group.Which of the below solutions will meet this demand.A. Change the Instance type in the current launch configuration. Change the Desired value of theAutoscaling Group to 4. Ensure the new instances are launched.B. Make a copy the Launch configuration. Change the instance type in the new launch configuration.Attach that to the Autoscaling Group.Change the maximum and Desired size of the Autoscaling Group to 4. Once the new instances arelaunched, change the Desired and maximum size back to 2.C. Delete the current Launch configuration. Create a new launch configuration with the new instance typeand add it to the Autoscaling Group. This will then launch the new instances.D. Change the desired and maximum size of the Autoscaling Group to 4. Make a copy the Launch configuration. Change the instance type in the new launch configuration. Attach that to the AutoscalingGroup. Change the maximum and Desired size of the Autoscaling Group to 2

Answer: BExplanation:ExplanationYou should make a copy of the launch configuration, add the new instance type. The change the AutoscalingGroup to include the new instance type. Then changethe Desired number of the Autoscaling Group to 4 so that instances of new instance type can be launched.Once launched, change the desired size back to 2, sothat Autoscaling will delete the instances with the older configuration. Note that the assumption here is that thecurrent instances are equally distributed across multiple AZ's because Autoscaling will first use theAZRebalance process to terminate instances.Option A is invalid because you cannot make changes to an existing Launch configuration.Option B is invalid because if you delete the existing launch configuration, then your application will not be available. You need to ensure a smooth deployment process.Option D is invalid because you should change the desired size to 4 after attaching the new launchconfiguration.For more information on Autoscaling Suspend and Resume, please visit the below URL:*

NEW QUESTION: 2A. Option DB. Option BC. Option CD. Option AAnswer: C,DExplanation:

Explanation The AWS Documentation mentions the following By default, AWS OpsWorks Stacks automatically installs the latest updates during setup, after an instance finishes booting. AWS OpsWorks Stacks does not automatically install updates after an instance is online, to avoid interruptions such as restarting application servers. Instead, you manage updates to your online instances yourself, so you can minimize any disruptions. We recommend that you use one of the following to update your online instances. Create and start new instances to replace your current online instances. Then delete the current instances. The new instances will have the latest set of security patches installed during setup. On Linux-based instances in Chef 11.10 or older stacks, run the Update Dependencies stack command, which installs the current set of security patches and other updates on the specified instances.
