NEW QUESTION: 3A PBX is connected to a service provider that makes use of three ISDN PRI (T1) links and no other facility. Non-Facility Associated Signaling (NFAS) is in use (only one signaling channel for all three PRI links) and the tariff offering provides for the maximum number of voice channels.What is the maximum number of voice calls that can be made simultaneously?A. 0B. 1C. 2D. 3E. 4F. 5Answer: AExplanation:ISDN Non-Facility Associated Signaling (NFAS) allows a single D channel to control multiple Primary Rate Interfaces (PRIs). You can configure a backup D channel when the primary NFAS D channel fails. When you configure the canalized T1 controllers for ISDN PRI, you only need to configure the NFAS primary D channel; its configuration is distributed to all the members of the associated NFAS group. By using a single D channel to control multiple PRIs, one extra channel on each interface is free to carry data traffic. Any hard failure of the primary D-signaling channel results in an immediate switchover to the backup D channel without disconnecting currently connected users. Note: If you configure a backup D channel, only 23 B channels can be used on the backup T1 controller because the D channel on the backup is unavailable. Therefore, only those T1s that are neither primary nor backup can have 24 B channels available.(23+1 23+1 23) = 71 last t1

D channel will be used for backup
