NEW QUESTION: 1You have a Linux EC2 web server instance running inside a VPC The instance is In a public subnet and has an EIP associated with it so you can connect to It over the Internet via HTTP or SSH The instance was also fully accessible when you last logged in via SSH. and was also serving web requests on port 80. Now you are not able to SSH into the host nor does it respond to web requests on port 80 that were working fine last time you checked You have double-checked that all networking configuration parameters (security groups route tables. IGW'EIP. NACLs etc) are properly configured {and you haven't made any changes to those anyway since you were last able to reach the Instance). You look at the EC2 console and notice that system status check shows "impaired." Which should be your next step in troubleshooting and attempting to get the instance back to a healthy state so that you can log in again?A. Add another Elastic Network Interface to the instance and try to connect via that new path since the networking stack of the OS may be locked up causing the "impaired" system statusB. un-map and then re-map the EIP to the instance, since the IGWV NAT gateway may not be working properly, causing the "impaired" system statusC. Stop and start the instance so that it will be able to be redeployed on a healthy host system that most likely will fix the "impaired" system statusD. Reboot your instance so that the operating system will have a chance to boot in a clean healthy state that most likely will fix the 'impaired" system statusE. Add another dynamic private IP address to me instance and try to connect via mat new path, since the networking stack of the OS may be locked up causing the "impaired" system status.Answer: C

NEW QUESTION: 2Which setting is used to determine the Domain Name System (DNS) settings on a client computer?A. PATHPINGB. NETSTATC. TELNETD. NSLOOKUPAnswer: D*Explanation: Explanation/Reference: nslookup is a network administration command-line tool available for many computer operating systems for querying the Domain Name System (DNS) to obtain domain name or IP address mapping or for any other specific DNS record.

NEW QUESTION: 3You develop an entertainment application where users can buy and trade virtual real estate. The application must scale to support thousands of users. The current architecture includes five Azure virtual machines (VM) that connect to an Azure SQL Database for account information and Azure Table Storage for backend services. A user interacts with these components in the cloud at any given time. Routing Service - Routes a request to the appropriate service and must not persist data across sessions. Account Service - Stores and manages all account information and authentication and requires data to persist across sessions User Service - Stores and manages all user information and requires data to persist across sessions. Housing Network Service - Stores and manages the current real-estate economy and requires data to persist across sessions. Trade Service - Stores and manages virtual trade between accounts and requires data to persist across sessions. Due to volatile user traffic, a microservices solution is selected for scale agility. You need to migrate to a distributed microservices solution on Azure Service Fabric. Solution: Create a Service Fabric Cluster with a stateful Reliable Service for each component. Does the solution meet the goal? A. Yes B. No
