NEW QUESTION: 1What are two differences between SNMP traps and SNMP informs? (Choose two)
A. Only traps are discarded after delivery
B. Only informs provide a confirmation of receipt
C. Only informs are discarded after delivery
D. Traps are more reliable than informs because they generate PDUs from the network manager
E. Informs are more reliable than traps because they require a TCP three-way handshake
Answer: B,C

NEW QUESTION: 2A company's AWS account consists of approximately 300 IAM users. Now there is a mandate that an access change is required for 100 IAM users to have unlimited privileges to S3.As a system administrator, how can you implement this effectively so that there is no need to apply the policy at the individual user level?Please select:
A. Create a policy and apply it to multiple users using a JSON script
B. Use the IAM groups and add users, based upon their role, to different groups and apply the policy to group
C. Create an S3 bucket policy with unlimited access which includes each user's AWS account ID
D. Create a new role and add each user to the IAM role
Answer: B
Explanation:Option A is incorrect since you don't add a user to the IAM Role
Option C is incorrect since you don't assign multiple users to a policy
Option D is incorrect since this is not an ideal approach
An IAM group is used to collectively manage users who need the same set of permissions. By having groups, it becomes easier to manage permissions. So if you change the permissions on the group scale, it will affect all the users in that group
For more information on IAM Groups, just browse to the below URL:
https://docs.aws.amazon.com/IAM/latest/UserGuide/id_eroups.html
The correct answer is: Use the IAM groups and add users, based upon their role, to different groups and apply the policy to group
