NEW QUESTION: 1 Refer to the exhibit.All Ethernet ports are trunked with VLANs 2 thru 10. The Cisco UCS domain is in end-host mode. Host A transmits a single broadcast frame on VLAN 4. Which statements are true? (Choose two.)A. The Reverse Path Forwarding mechanism prevents the vNICs from receiving multiple copies of the broadcast frame.B. All four vNICs receive multiple copies of the broadcast frame on VLAN 4 but no broadcasts on any other VLAN.C. The deja vu mechanism on the fabric interconnects prevents the fabric interconnects from receiving multiple copies of the broadcast frame.D. All four vNICs receive a single copy of the broadcast frame.E. Nexus 5548 A and Nexus 5548 B send a copy of the broadcast frame down all six ports to Fabric Interconnect A and Fabric Interconnect B.F. The spanning tree process prevents the vNICs from receiving multiple copies of the broadcast frame.Answer: D,EExplanation:When the Cisco UCS fabric interconnect is in end-host mode, it assumes that all uplinks are connected to the same, common Layer 2 domain. The fabric interconnects will each randomly choose a designated single uplink to receive all broadcast frames entering the system. As a result, a portion of the broadcast messages will be lost because broadcasts received on all other uplinks will be ignored and dropped.If the fabric interconnect in end-host mode is connected to multiple isolated networks. it will not be able to process all broadcast messages from each isolated network because it does not receive broadcasts coming in on other links. It will process broadcasts from the network containing the chosen uplink only (shown in blue in Figure 16).From the example in Figure 16, fabric interconnect 6100-A chose an uplink connected to DMZ 1 as the broadcast link, but 6100-A is not receiving any broadcast messages from DMZ 2, and therefore DMZ 2 server vNICs connected to 6100-A will not be able to see any important broadcast messages from DMZ 2, such as ARP requests.Reference: http://www.cisco.com/c/en/us/products/collateral/switches/nexus-7000-seriesswitches/white_paper_c11-623265.html

NEW QUESTION: 4A. Option AB. Option EC. Option BD. Option DE. Option CAnswer: B,C Explanation:
http://www.cisco.com/en/US/prod/collateral/vpndevc/ps6032/ps6094/ps6120/prod_white_paper0900aecd8058ec85.htmlAdding Intrusion PreventionGartner's definition of a next-generation firewall is one that combines firewall filtering and intrusion prevention systems (IPSs). Like firewalls, IPSs filter packets in real time. But instead of filtering based on user profiles and application policies, they scan for known malicious patterns in incoming code, called signatures. These signatures indicate the presence of malware, such as worms, Trojan horses, and spyware.Malware can overwhelm server and network resources and cause denial of service (DoS) to internal employees, external Web users, or both. By filtering for known malicious signatures, IPSs add an extra layer of security to firewall capabilities; once the malware is detected by the IPS, the system will block it from the network.Firewalls provide the first line of defense in any organization's network security infrastructure. They do so by matching corporate policies about users' network access rights to the connection information surrounding each access attempt. If the variables don't match, the firewall blocks the access connection. If the variables do match, the firewall allows the acceptable traffic to flow through the network.In this way, the firewall forms the basic building block of an organization's network security architecture. It pays to use one with superior performance to maximize network uptime for business- critical operations. The reason is that the rapid addition of voice, video, and collaborative traffic to corporate networks is driving the need for firewall engines that operate at very high speeds and that also support application-level inspection. While standard Layer 2 and Layer 3 firewalls prevent unauthorized access to internal and external networks, firewalls enhanced with application-level inspection examine, identify, and verify application types at Layer 7 to make sure unwanted or misbehaving application traffic doesn't join the network. With these capabilities, the firewall can enforce endpoint user registration and authentication and provide administrative control over the use of multimedia applications.
