NEW QUESTION: 1You have a computer that runs windows 7.The computer is configured as shown in the following table.You plan to install a new application that requires 40 GB of space. The application will be installed to C:app1.You need to provide 40 GB of free space for the application.What should you do?A. Create a shortcut.B. Create a mount point.C. Create hard link.D. Change the quota settings.Answer: B*Explanation:Assign a mount point folder path to a driveYou can use Disk Management to assign a mount-point folder path (rather than a drive letter) to the drive. Mount-point folder paths are available only on empty folders on basic or dynamic NTFS volumes.Volume Mount PointsVolume mount points are new system objects in the internal namespace of Windows 2000 that represent storage volumes in a persistent, robust manner. This feature allows multiple disk volumes to be linked into a single tree, similar to the way Dfs links remote network shares. You can have many disk volumes linked together, with only a single drive letter pointing to the root volume. The combination of an NTFS junction and a Windows 2000 volume mount point can be used to graft multiple volumes into the namespace of a host NTFS volume. Windows 2000 offers this new mounting feature as an alternative to drive letters so system administrators can transcend the 26-drive letter limit that exists in Windows NT. Volume mount points are robust against system changes that occur when devices are added or removed from a computer. Important-icon Important A volume is a self-contained unit of storage administered by a file system. The file system that administers the storage in a volume defines a namespace for the volume. A volume mount point is a directory name in an NTFS file system that denotes the root of an arbitrary volume. A volume mount point can be placed in any empty directory of the namespace of the containing NTFS volume. Because volumes can be denoted by arbitrary directory names, they are not required to have a traditional drive letter. Placing a volume mount point on an NTFS directory causes the storage subsystem to resolve the directory to a specified local volume. This "mounting" is done transparently and does not require a drive letter to represent the volume. A Windows 2000 mount point always resolves to the root directory of the desired volume. Volume mount points require that the version of NTFS included with Windows 2000 be used because they are based on NTFS reparse points.

NEW QUESTION: 2Case Study: 3,MJTelco Case StudyCompany OverviewMJTelco is a startup that plans to build networks in rapidly growing, underserved markets around the world. The company has patents for innovative optical communications hardware. Based on these patents, they can create many reliable, high-speed backbone links with inexpensive hardware.

Company Background Founded by experienced telecom executives, MJTelco uses technologies originally developed to overcome communications challenges in space. Fundamental to their operation, they need to create a distributed data infrastructure that drives real-time analysis and incorporates machine learning to continuously optimize their topologies. Because their hardware is inexpensive, they plan to overdeploy the network allowing them to account for the impact of dynamic regional politics on location availability and cost. Their management and operations teams are situated all around the globe creating many-to-many relationship between data consumers and provides in their system. After careful consideration, they decided public cloud is the perfect environment to support their needs.

Solution Concept MJTelco is running a successful proof-of-concept (PoC) project in its labs. They have two primary needs: Scale and harden their PoC to support significantly more data flows generated when they ramp to more than 50,000 installations. Refine their machine-learning cycles to verify and improve the dynamic models they use to control topology definition. MJTelco will also use three separate operating environments ?development/test, staging, and production ?to meet the needs of running experiments, deploying new features, and serving production customers.

Business Requirements Scale up their production environment with minimal cost, instantiating resources when and where needed in an unpredictable, distributed telecom user community. Ensure security of their proprietary data to protect their leading-edge machine learning and analysis. Provide reliable and timely access to data for analysis from distributed research workers. Maintain isolated environments that support rapid iteration of their machine-learning models without affecting their customers.

Technical Requirements Ensure secure and efficient transport and storage of telemetry data. Rapidly scale instances to support between 10,000 and 100,000 data providers with multiple flows each. Allow analysis and presentation against data tables tracking up to 2 years of data storing approximately 100m records/day. Support rapid iteration of monitoring infrastructure focused on awareness of data pipeline problems both in telemetry flows and in production learning cycles.

CEO Statement Our business model relies on our patents, analytics and dynamic machine learning. Our inexpensive hardware is organized to be highly reliable, which gives us cost advantages. We need to quickly stabilize our large distributed data pipelines to meet our reliability and capacity commitments.

CTO Statement Our public cloud services must operate as advertised. We need resources that scale and keep our data secure. We also need environments in which our data scientists can carefully study and quickly adapt our models. Because we rely on automation to process our data, we also need our development and test environments to work as we iterate.

CFO Statement The project is too large for us to maintain the hardware and software required for the data and analysis. Also, we cannot afford to staff an operations team to monitor so many data feeds, so we will rely on automation and infrastructure. Google Cloud's machine learning will allow our quantitative researchers to work on our high-value problems instead of problems with our data pipelines. Google Cloud Dataflow pipeline is now ready to start receiving data from the 50,000 installations. You want to allow Cloud Dataflow to scale its compute power up as required. Which Cloud Dataflow pipeline configuration setting should you update?

A. The zone B. The maximum number of workers C. The number of workers D. The disk size per worker Answer: A

NEW QUESTION: 3 The nation of Economica has increased their M1 money supply by 10% over the last year by printing currency. This policy causes no price inflation. Which of the following could explain this phenomenon?

I). The nation of Islandia begins using the Economican currency as a reserve.
 II). Aggregate output increases in Economica.
 III). The Central Bank begins a government debt buy-back program.

A. I only. B. I, II. C. I, II, III. Answer: B

Explanation: Under the basic price level equation  $P = M / Y$  (Price Level = Money Supply / Output, ignoring the velocity of money for the moment), a 10% increase in the money supply would result in an increase in the price level. One obvious thing that could prevent price inflation would be a corresponding increase in output. Another possibility would be some reduction in the money available for purchase of goods, such as a foreign nation holding domestic currency as reserve. When Central Banks buy government debt, they usually do so with newly printed cash, and even if not, a debt buy-back would serve to decrease interest rates, which would result in an expansion of the money supply.
