Explanation:ExplanationBox 1: StrongStrong: Strong consistency offers a linearizability guarantee. The reads are guaranteed to return the most recent committed version of an item. A client never sees an uncommitted or partial write. Users are always guaranteed to read the latest committed write.Box 2: Bounded stalenessBounded staleness: The reads are guaranteed to honor the consistent-prefix guarantee. The reads might lag behind writes by at most "K" versions (that is "updates") of an item or by "t" time interval. When you choose bounded staleness, the "staleness" can be configured in two ways:The number of versions (K) of the item The time interval (t) by which the reads might lag behind the writesBox 3: EventualEventual: There's no ordering guarantee for reads. In the absence of any further writes, the replicas eventually converge.

NEW QUESTION: 2How are keys and values presented and passed to the reducers during a standard sort and shuffle phase of MapReduce?A. Keys are presented to a reducer in random order; values for a given key are sorted in ascending order.B. Keys are presented to reducer in sorted order; values for a given key are sorted in ascending order.C. Keys are presented to a reducer in random order; values for a given key are not sorted.D. Keys are presented to reducer in sorted order; values for a given key are not sorted.Answer: D Explanation: Reducer has 3 primary phases: 1. Shuffle 2. Sort The Reducer copies the sorted output from each Mapper using HTTP across the network. The framework merge sorts Reducer inputs by keys (since different Mappers may have output the same key). The shuffle and sort phases occur simultaneously i.e. while outputs are being fetched they are merged. Secondary Sort To achieve a secondary sort on the values returned by the value iterator, the application should extend the key with the secondary key and define a grouping comparator. The keys will be sorted using the entire key, but will be grouped using the grouping comparator to decide which keys and values are sent in the same call to reduce. 3. Reduce In this phase the reduce(Object, Iterable, Context) method is called for each <key, (collection of values)> in the sorted inputs. The output of the reduce task is typically written to a RecordWriter via TaskInputOutputContext.write(Object, Object). The output of the Reducer is not re-sorted. Reference: org.apache.hadoop.mapreduce, Class Reducer<KEYIN,VALUEIN,KEYOUT,VALUEOUT>
