Incident time offsets were not accounted for.B. Chain of custody was not properly maintained. C. The logs are corrupt and no longer forensically sound.D. Traffic logs for the incident are unavailable. Answer: AExplanation:It is quite common for workstation times to be off slightly from actual time, and that can happen with servers as well. Since a forensic investigation is usually dependent on a step-by-step account of what has happened, being able to follow events in the correct time sequence is critical. Because of this, it is imperative to record the time offset on each affected machine during the investigation. One method of assisting with this is to add an entry to a log file and note the time that this was done and the time associated with it on the system. Incorrect Answers:A. Corrupted logs would indicate that it had been tampered with and in this case there is no mention of logs being corrupted, in fact it can still be reviewed successfully.B. The logs have been reviewed is mentioned in the question thus it is not a matter of it being unavailable.C. The chain of custody in forensics refers to how evidence is secured, where it is stored, and who has access to it. In this case the evidence is clearly available, etc. References:Dulaney, Emmett and Chuck Eastton, CompTIA Security+ Study Guide, 6th Edition, Sybex, Indianapolis, 2014, pp. 453,448
