NEW QUESTION: 3 Which design concept is based on the principle of fluid resource pools?
A. The Idea Economy*B. Composable Infrastructure*C. Adaptive infrastructure*D. Software-defined Storage*Answer: B
Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Explanation: HP Composable Infrastructure is designed around three core principles: * Fluid resource pools effortlessly meet each application's changing needs by allowing for the composition and recomposition of single blocks of disaggregated compute, storage, and fabric infrastructure. * Software-defined intelligence provides a single management interface to integrate operational silos and eliminate complexity. Workload templates speed deployment and frictionless change eliminates unnecessary downtime. * Unified API provides a single interface to discover, search, inventory, configure, provision, update, and diagnose the composable infrastructure. A single line of code enables full infrastructure programmability and can provision the infrastructure required for an application. References:
