NEW QUESTION: 2Note: This question is part of a series of questions that use the same or similar answer choices. An answer choice may be correct for more than one question in the series. Each question is independent of the other questions in this series. Information and details provided in a question apply only to that question. You support desktop computers and tablets that run Windows 8 Enterprise. All of the computers are able to connect to your company network from the Internet by using DirectAccess. Your company wants to deploy a new application to the tablets. The deployment solution must meet the following requirements:
-The application is stored locally on the tablets.
-Access to the application is protected with extra logon credentials, in addition to a standard domain account used by users.
-The application utilizes the least amount of network bandwidth.
You need to deploy the new application to the tablets. What should you do?A. Install the application in a Windows To Go workspace.B. Install the application on a local drive on the tablets.C. Deploy the application as an Application Virtualization (App-V) package. Install the App-V client on the tablets.D. Install the application within a separate Windows 8 installation in a VHDX file. Configure tablets with dual boot.E. Install the application within a separate Windows 8 installation in a virtual hard disk (VHD) file. Configure the tablets with dual boot.F. Publish the application to Windows Store.G. Install Hyper-V on tablets. NEW QUESTION: 3A. Option B. Option C. Option D. Option A*Answer: A*Explanation:You can use the port security feature to restrict input to an interface by limiting and identifying MAC addresses of the stations allowed to access the port. When you assign secure MAC addresses to a secure port, the port does not forward packets with source addresses outside the group of defined addresses. If you limit the number of secure MAC addresses to one and assign a single secure MAC address, the workstation attached to that port is assured the full bandwidth of the port. If a port is configured as a secure port and the maximum number of secure MAC addresses is reached, when the MAC address of a station attempting to access the port is different from any of the identified secure MAC addresses, a security violation occurs. Also, if a station with a secure MAC address configured or learned on one secure port attempts to access another secure port, a violation is flagged.
